

PUBLIC RECREATION CENTERS IN GEORGIA PRAISED BY RIVERS

National Association Told Program Will Keep Workers Out of Saloons.

Georgia is building recreation centers to keep workers out of saloons and roadhouses during leisure time, Governor E. D. Rivers told delegates to the American Public Works Association last night at the Biltmore hotel.

"Whether we like it or not, the trend is toward shorter working hours and fewer working days," said the chief executive, the principal speaker at the convention banquet and dance.

Recreation Centers. "When workers have this added leisure time, Georgia intends, through its public works program, to have prepared for it. In all of the 159 counties we intend to construct recreation centers along with forestry reserves and other public welfare work.

"People will use these recreation centers and not spend all their leisure time in beer saloons and roadhouses."

Outlining the state's ambitious progressive program, including health and sanitation work, the Governor pointed again to his plan for "public works camps" to eliminate chain gangs and highway gangs.

The new "taste" in bricks were two topics discussed yesterday by the public works officials. H. J. Cates, head of the sanitary department of Atlanta, who is chairman of the convention, asserted that Atlanta has made $255,870 since 1925 in the sale of steam manufactured from garbage.

Brick Research.

Roy L. Phillips, city engineer of Meadville, Pa., asserted there is need for greater research in street paving. "There are different types of bricks," he said, urging cities and small towns to study the type brick needed for each street in order to carry the traffic load.

J. Eugene Root, director of public works in Cincinnati, Ohio, was elected president of the association yesterday.

He succeeds Thomas Buckley, of Philadelphia. Other new officers chosen yesterday are first vice president, Guy Brown, engineer of sewers of St. Louis; second vice president, John S. Flockhart, assistant engineer of Newark, N. J., and treasurer, Roy L. Phillips, city engineer of Meadville, Pa.

lips, city engineer of Meadville, Pennsylvania.

Named Directors. Named to the board of directors were L. G. Lenhardt, of Detroit; F. T. Paul, Minneapolis; H. D. Bradley, of Toronto, Canada; W. J. Galligan, of Chicago; H. L. Howe, of Rochester; L. W. Herzog, of Albany, N. Y.; W. E. Rosen-garten, of Ardmore, Penn., and former President Buckley.

Officers were elected at a business session which followed a discussion by two Atlantans of the city's metropolitan sewer system program.

Tells of Sewage Plant. M. T. Singleton, consulting engineer, and W. A. Hansell, assistant chief of construction in charge of sewers, told how Atlanta is building five sewage disposal plants and main-line sewers with the view of eventually handling the sewage of a city of 700,000.

More than 200 delegates to the convention, which closes tomorrow, yesterday toured the city. They visited the Cyclorama to see the painting of the Battle of Atlanta, and also inspected sewers and textile mills here.

POOR RURAL BIRTHS DOUBLE BIG CITIES'

Doctor Views This as Lowering of Stock.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(P)—A warning the nation's big cities are drawing their population from areas where social conditions are lowering the quality of human stock came today from a conference of the Save the Children Fund of America.

Dr. John W. Smithers, dean of New York University's school of education, told the afternoon session of the Southern Mountains' Children's conference, that birth trends of 1930 indicate a birth rate in the poorer regions of the Appalachians more than double that of cities of over 100,000.

"We find that the professions have the smallest birth rates," he said. The businessmen next, then skilled workers, farm owners and farm renters, while the group having the largest rate is composed of farm laborers. It would seem, therefore... that our population is being recruited in such a way as to lower the quality of human stock. This, of course, is not necessarily so, but the evidence seems to point in that direction."

He succeeds Thomas Buckley, of Philadelphia. Other new officers chosen yesterday are first vice president, Guy Brown, engineer of sewers of St. Louis; second vice president, John S. Flockhart, assistant engineer of Newark, N. J., and treasurer, Roy L. Phillips, city engineer of Meadville, Pa.

FIREWORKS BAN SIGNED BY MAYOR

Hartsfield Also Approves Auditorium Board's Report.

Approval of council's action in adopting the special board of inquiry's report on the municipal auditorium and of prohibiting sale and discharge of fireworks in the city was given yesterday by Mayor Hartsfield.

The chief executive signed both papers yesterday morning, making both effective.

The mayor also approved an appropriation of $150 with which the city plans to make an exhibit at the Southeastern Fair.

Loyal County Officer Gets Jeweled Badge

"This badge stands for our appreciation of the loyal and valuable service that you have rendered Fulton county for more than 35 years," County Commissioner Edwin F. Johnson (right) told John S. Oliver (left), assistant chief of the county police force, yesterday as he pinned a new jeweled badge on Assistant Chief Oliver. Chief George Mathieson looks on as the commissioner pins on the badge presented the new assistant chief in a "surprise" ceremony by members of the police force.

Police Mystery Of Missing Badge Happily Solved

The mystery of his missing police badge was solved yesterday much to the delight and relief of John S. Oliver, recently promoted to the newly-created position of assistant chief of the Fulton county police force.

Fulton county commissioners, members of the county police force and courthouse officials surprised the new assistant chief with a brief ceremony in the commissioners' room paying tribute to Assistant Chief Oliver's 35 years on the force and celebrating his recent promotion.

Badge Disappears. A few days ago, the captain's badge Chief Oliver had been wearing disappeared from his coat. Days of worry followed for the assistant chief until yesterday, when it at first appeared court action against him for his "neglect" was in the offing.

Haled before the county commission, Chief Oliver found the room packed with courthouse officials and county policemen, present for the "hearing."

Stern admonishment from Commissioner Edwin F. Johnson, chairman of the police committee, had the assistant chief squirming. But Commissioner Johnson's discomposure on "accusations" and the missing badge turned into high praise for the service of Chief Oliver on the force.

Jordan Given Badge. Chief George Mathieson then came to the rescue of his assistant, produced the missing badge and announced that it would go to Frank Jordan, recently promoted to the rank of captain on the force.

The gold, jeweled badge denoting the rank of assistant chief, purchased by members of the department, was then presented to Oliver. Members of the commission, expressing appreciation for his years of service on the force, praised the efficiency of the department's work under Chief Mathieson.

BRACKETT ENTERS SENATORIAL RACE
Six Candidates Seek New Fulton Seat.

A platform of economy was announced yesterday by D. H. Brackett in announcing candidacy for the state senate from the new Fulton county senatorial district.

Brackett's announcement placed six candidates in the field before the entry list closed at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. J. S. Sheltiesworth, of Fairburn, qualified early in the day.

Reduction in Atlanta taxes and water rates along with occupational tax now in force are main points in his platform, Brackett said.

Other candidates are Paul H. Butler, Atlanta attorney; G. Everett Millican, former state senator; Carl Hutcheson, Atlanta attorney; and G. W. Threlkel, Atlanta salesman.

TOURISTS, TRAMPS TO GET JOB BLANKS

Slips Will Be Left at Trailer Camps and River Shacks.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(P)—Uncle Sam is going to give tourists and tramps, as well as stay-at-homes, an opportunity to register in his forthcoming unemployment census.

John D. Biggers, the census administrator, told reporters today that "postmen would try hard to reach everybody" with the registration blanks to be distributed November 16 and 17 and mailed back to local postoffices by midnight November 21.

"They will visit every trailer camp, for instance," Biggers told reporters, "and leave registration forms in every trailer. They will go to shacks along the rivers and the railroads, where transients gather."

Samples of the registration blanks, made public today, bore a brief message from President Roosevelt "to every worker."

The message read: "If you are unemployed or partly unemployed and are able to work and are seeking work, please fill out this report card right away and mail it before midnight, Saturday, November 20, 1937. No postage stamp is needed."

"The congress directed me to take this census. It is important to the unemployed and to everyone in this land that the census be complete, honest and accurate. If you give me the facts I shall try to use them for the benefit of all who need and want work and do not now have it."

MOTHER KILLED, YOUTH RELEASED

Police Chief Rules Woman Was Accidentally Shot.

HAMMOND, La., Oct. 5.—(P)—Police Chief Fred Myers said tonight Conrad Robertson, 14, accidentally shot and killed his mother with a .22 rifle as she stepped from an automobile in front of their home on the Covington highway east of Hammond.

The shooting, Chief Myers said, occurred late in the day and the youth was brought immediately to Hammond by an older brother and a cousin who turned him over to officers. After hearing his account of the tragedy Chief Myers said he released the youth.

Long Barn's owner, Harold G. Nicholson, member of the house of commons, said Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh gave notice that he intended to remain "until after Christmas at least."

MOYERS INDICTED FOR BANK HOLDUP DURING BIG FIRE

James Max Chitwood Also Named in Ginger Rogers
Extortion Case.

William T. Moyers, Atlanta man who figured in a spectacular $30,000 holdup of T. K. Glenn, president of the Trust Company of Georgia on November 19, 1936, was indicted by the federal grand jury yesterday on charges of robbing a member bank of the federal reserve system.

Indicted on two counts, Moyers is charged with taking the money, which belonged to the Trust Company of Georgia, and of assaulting Glenn and threatening his life by the use of a pistol.

The alleged holdup occurred on the day of the Cable Piano Company fire. After obtaining the money, Moyers escaped in the crowd watching the fire and was not arrested by FBI agents until several days later. He was tried and convicted in the state courts.

Chitwood Indicted.
Indictment of James Max Chitwood, of Dalton, who is charged with sending an extortion letter to Ginger Rogers, is also included in the group of 43 "true bills" returned by the federal grand jury.

The letter, which was mailed from Dalton on May 17, threatened the movie star unless she sent $400 to a given address, according to the indictment. The letter, a copy of which is reproduced, said: "Send 400 dollars to this address number 144 Gaston street, Dalton, Ga., or else it will be just too bad."

Two companies and one individual were indicted for alleged violation of the Elkins act, which prohibits the receiving of rebates from common carriers.

The indictments charge that reduced railroad rates were obtained by substitution of horses, cattle and mules on through shipments. Those indicted are Jones-Neuhoff Commission Company, Patterson Commission Company and C. N. Ragsdale, all of Fulton county.

Most of the other "true bills" involve violation of the internal revenue laws and similar infractions. The grand jury, which returned 12 indictments yesterday, will reconvene at 10 o'clock this morning.

Owens Leaves Chain Gang to Testify in Vickers' Trial

Ralph Owens, Atlanta liquor racketeer, left, was brought in yesterday from the River camp, where he is serving a chain gang sentence, to testify in the trial of Carl Vickers, right, for the murder of William Warren Colson in a taproom two years ago. Owens denied reports that he knew anything about police "pay-offs" and said he had no information to give the Fulton grand jury in its probe into graft and organized racketeering. Owens was said to have been brought in to testify yesterday as a defense witness.

STOCKS DECLINE TO NEW YEAR LOWS

$126.50, fell below the starting point of that advance. It finished around $73 for a loss of more than $5.

Allied Chemical cracked $15 to $180, Du Pont $8.50 to close around $134, Crown Cork and Seal more than $7 to $41.50, J. I. Case $8 at $123 and General Motors $3.25 below $46. Eastman Kodak was off $8.50 at $166 and Deere $10 at $98.

Decline in Commodities.

More impressive to some observers was the sweep of the decline in commodities. The Associated Press index of 35 leading staples, based on quotations for immediate delivery, had its worst setback since last spring and touched the lowest since November, 1936. Wheat futures in Chicago dropped 2 1/2 to nearly 3 cents a bushel. Rubber, wool, hides, copper, silk, tin and other commodities which boomed early in the year were marked down. After a long decline, cotton resisted the trend, closing with little change.

In contrast with speculative markets, United States government and top-grade corporate bonds managed to keep a fair hold on their positions.

In severity the break in stocks did not quite match the worst plunges last month, when about $7,500,000,000 was clipped off quoted share values on the stock exchange. Nor was trading unusually heavy considering the width of the losses, brokers noted. Transactions totaled 1,680,720 shares against 631,400 yesterday.

MRS. THOMAS CONNER IS INJURED IN CRASH

Mrs. Thomas Conner, wife of Dr. Thomas Conner, of 952 Lullwater road, and her son, Tom, 12, were slightly injured yesterday afternoon when a car occupied by five negroes ran through a stop sign at Hilliard and Houston street, and collided with their auto, police reported.

Police are looking for the driver of the negro car, which was immediately abandoned, on charges of reckless driving, accident, leaving the scene of an accident, and failing to stop at a stop sign.

War Brings Shortage Of Chinese Actors

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 5.—(P)—

The law of supply and demand boomed the market for Chinese actors today—and slowed movie making because there wasn't enough Orientals to go around.

There are more than 400 Chinese players out here, but that's not enough these days. Four Oriental pictures brought on by Chinese-Japanese hostilities are in production. Each needs from 100 to 400 Chinese actors.

Hollywood Chinese contribute a part of their earnings to a war relief fund.

ALMSHOUSE END IN STATE DECREED

November 15 Deadline Is Set by Murdaugh.

Director Lamar Murdaugh, of the State Department of Public Welfare, yesterday set November 15 as the day for the "final passing" of the almshouses from the state of Georgia.

He expressed satisfaction over reports from Macon stating 34 persons had been removed from the Bibb county almshouse and placed on public assistance rolls, and said:

"We plan to have all persons over 65 years taken from almshouses and transferred to public assistance rolls by November 15. The way things are shaping up, we expect to rid the state of almshouses by that date."

The director pointed out the welfare department also planned to remove the blind and dependent children from almshouses along with the aged.

This, he said, would bring "a tremendous saving to the various counties."

CONSUMERS' WAR HITS HOG PRICES

Sharp Drop Reported as Sheep and Lambs Also Reflect Upward.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—(P)—Between possibility of meat price declines, the nation's slumping livestock markets reflected today the force of consumer resistance to six-year high butcher shop quotations.

The market values of hogs dropped 50 to 65 cents a hundred-weight at Chicago's stockyards and other major livestock centers. Cattle prices here recovered steadiness after yesterday's sensational tumble of 50 cents to $1.50, one of the sharpest breaks on record. This general downturn of live animal costs, which has been reflected also in sheep and lambs, carried prices of most livestock to the lowest levels in weeks.

The drop in livestock has been accompanied by sharp price concessions in some wholesale meat cuts, particularly pork. Beef cuts have leveled off. "Demand slow, market weak" was the tone of reports from many of the major distributing centers, indicative of the sluggish condition of the wholesale meat trade. Wholesale beef has declined one to two cents a pound in Chicago the last few days. Veal at various distributing points is one and one-half to three cents lower, lamb one to two cents down and fresh pork one and one-half to four cents down.

Break has been in pork, with fresh loins here now quoted at 17 to 24 cents compared with 21 to 33 the middle of September.

WALLACE PLANS ACTION IN MEAT PRICE STRIKE

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(P)—Mayor F. H. LaGuardia announced tonight that Secretary of Agriculture Wallace will attend a conference here Friday seeking settlement of the Koshers meat strike that has closed 3,000 butcher shops in the metropolitan area.

Wallace's decisions to confer was made known after he and the mayor met this afternoon, presumably to discuss charges of the Federation of Koshers Butchers that large meat dealers were absorbing small retail establishments in violation of federal anti-monopoly laws.

An earlier conference between Commissioner of Markets William F. H. Morgan Jr., and representatives of the Butchers' Federation ended today without a settlement of the shop-closing protest against high wholesale meat prices.

MEAT PRICE SITUATION IS PUT UP TO U. S. CHIEFS

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—(P)—Protests of thousands of Massachusetts housewives that meat prices are soaring beyond reach of the family pocketbook tonight were thrown into the lap of the federal government by Governor Charles F. Hurley.

Rejecting a petition of Representative Roland D. Sawyer, Democrat, for a special session of the state legislature to probe the rising prices, the Governor asserted the Federal Agricultural Department was the "proper unit to make a study."

INCREASE SEEN IN FREIGHT RATE

Gains Expected To Offset Wage Rise.

WELLESLEY, Mass., Oct. 5.—(P)—An investment expert tonight predicted the nation's railroads would be given increases in freight rates that "may entirely, or at least largely, offset wage increases."

H. C. Baldwin, of Boston, in a prepared address at the 24th annual national business conference at Babson Park, said the decision would come "this month and in time will be reflected in the last quarter earnings of railroads."

TAPROOM SLAYING DESCRIBED TO JURY

'Everybody Drinking' Gist of Testimony at Trial of Carl Vickers.

Trial of Carl Vickers for the murder of William Warren Colson in a Houston street taproom two years ago will be resumed this morning with Assistant Solicitor General J. Walter LeCraw continuing to introduce evidence for the state.

Court was adjourned late yesterday after a long succession of state witnesses had testified that "just about everybody in the taproom was drinking" when the fatal shot was fired on the night of December 6, 1935.

Testimony was brought out, however, to show that no one saw Vickers drinking, while a waitress testified she served only coffee to the defendant.

"Everybody Drinking."

Benny Cline, said to have operated the taproom jointly with Ralph Owens, Atlanta liquor racketeer now serving a gang sentence, testified that everybody in the place was drinking but admitted he never saw Vickers drinking anything, upon questioning by Defense Attorney Ellis Barrett.

The defense contends Vickers shot Colson in self-defense.

The court was temporarily disrupted yesterday morning when a juror, Ralph P. Adams, of 389 Eighth street, became suddenly ill. Dr. H. L. Gilbert, chief of the County Health Department, treated the juror before he was taken to Piedmont hospital in an ambulance.

11 Jurors Hear Case.

Defense and prosecution consented to continue the trial with 11 jurors hearing the case. Owens, expected to testify in behalf of the defense, failed to be called to the stand, but remained in the courthouse detention room all day. Vickers was arrested in Bluefield, W. Va., several months after the shooting in 1935 and brought back to Atlanta charged with murder.

CHURCH TO DELAY VOTE ON DIVORCE

Action To Be Deferred Until 1940, Episcopalians Say.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 5.—(P)—Modification of the stern and traditional attitude of the Protestant Episcopal Church toward remarriage of divorced members appeared destined tonight for another three-year delay.

Informed churchmen said on the eve of their 52d triennial general convention that action on a recommendation of the Church Joint Commission on Marriage and Divorce likely would be deferred for further study and possible discussion at the Lambeth conference in London in 1940.

The commission proposed that bishops be empowered to decide whether a divorced communicant should be allowed to remarry.

A church canon, taken from the law of the parent church of England, permits only the remarriage of the innocent party in a divorce for adultery.

SEABOARD'S MANDAMUS FOR TRUCK LINE DENIED

Mandamus action of the Seaboard Air Line railroad to compel the Georgia Public Service Commission to grant a certificate to operate a trucking service alongside its railroad tracks failed yesterday as a three-judge superior court here denied the pleas of the railroad.

The railroad several months ago sought a certificate required by state law from the commission but were denied the license, the commission asserting that rail and truck service should be maintained on a competitive basis.

JOLIET FOOD STRIKERS KEPT LOCKED IN CELLS

JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 5.—(P)—A hunger strike at Stateville penitentiary developed into a one-sided endurance contest today when Warden Joseph E. Ragen said "they started it, let them finish it."

Locked in their cells after they refused to eat, 3,000 prisoners faced an indeterminate period of inactivity, the warden said. He told them their confinement would last as long as their strike.

FOG FORCES 'M'FADDEN TO LAND IN PASTURE

PETERSBURG, Va., Oct. 5.—(P)

Publisher Bernarr McFadden and two companions were forced by fog this afternoon to land in a pasture three miles north of here on their Miami-New York flight.

McFadden and his companions, Dr. L. E. Spota and H. B. Fielding, of Miami, were unhurt, and their Stinson cabin plane was undamaged.

MACON BANK ASSETS SOLD FOR $56,841.56

MACON, Ga., Oct. 5.—(P)—The assets of the closed Macon Savings Bank were sold before the courthouse door this morning for $56,841.56 to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

All assets were disposed of by the sale, including notes, real estate and stock assessments uncollected. They have a paper value of approximately $300,000.

ATLANTA TRUSTY FLEES TURNER COUNTY GANG

Turner county chain gang guards came in for their bit of grief yesterday—a trusty walked away during the early morning hours.

M. C. Standridge, 38, serving a five-year sentence for burglary, left during the night and apparently headed for his parents' home in Atlanta. Warden J. B. Hobby said. He had served two years.

through an exchange of prisoners with the Spanish government.

The court-martial verdict will be handed down Thursday.

The solemn military tribunal of five lieutenant officers today listened to Dahl's plea that he joined the Spanish government forces only as an aircraft instructor and was forced to fly on the Madrid war front.

His blond hair carefully slicked down after long months in jail, the American appeared calm and assured in the crowded chamber, once the palace of a Spanish cardinal.

A dramatic highlight came when a telegram was read to the quiet courtroom from the flyer's beautiful wife now waiting for him in Cannes.

"Heart and good wishes of the whole world are with you, love, Edith," said the message.

In his own defense, Dahl, declared in distinctly spoken English, "I came only as an instructor, not as a pilot," words that were translated to the tribunal.

Indian Fighter, Gray Veteran, Taken by Death

George M. Smith, 90, of 9 Gould Place, S. E., Confederate war veteran, and one of the last Indian fighters in the south, died late Monday night at his residence after a long illness.

A native of Alabama, Mr. Smith served with the Confederate army and later went westward with the United States army before returning to Alabama to settle down as a planter. About 37 years ago he moved to Georgia and continued as a planter, coming to Atlanta about 10 years ago.

He is survived by five daughters, Mrs. A. J. Connell, Mrs. J. T. Siniard and Misses Emma, Addie and Gussie Smith, and a son, Charlie Smith, of Anderson, Ala.

Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock this afternoon at the Racoon Creek Baptist church, near Cartersville. The Revs. James H. McBrown and A. L. Floury will officiate. Burial will be in the churchyard.

WILLIFORD RE-INDICTED ON PERJURY CHARGES

Ben C. Williford, suspended Atlanta attorney, was reindicted by the Fulton county grand jury yesterday for perjury in connection with disbarment proceedings brought against him several months ago by Solicitor General Boykin.

Williford's attorney recently introduced a motion to dismiss the indictment pending against him, on which he is to be tried by a three-judge court late this month.

The motion, denied by Judge E. D. Thomas, contended that the charges set out in the Fulton grand jury's indictment were based on and identical with disbarment proceedings in Atkinson and Tift counties. He was cleared of those charges, the motion asserted, and Fulton county is without jurisdiction to try him on the charges set out in the original indictment.

MAN SOUGHT IN THEFT IS SEIZED IN TRAILER

W. H. Groover, 21, sought in connection with a $11,000 jewel robbery near Orlando, Fla., was arrested yesterday by police in a trailer on Gillette street near Tift avenue.

Groover, police said, admitted participation in the jewel hold-up. Groover had been sought since May, when three men held up three Emory students. W. T. Bodford, a student, identified Groover's picture.

NEW DENTAL CLINIC FOR CHILDREN OPEN

College Unit Dedicated;

of Needy.

Children of limited income families need no longer grin and bear the pangs of toothache, for yesterday the Delos L. Hill Jr. Memorial Clinic for Children was dedicated at the Atlanta-Southern Dental College.

Here the teeth of the needy girls and boys will be cared for under expert supervision.

The clinic was established on a limited basis in 1931 with a $50,000 endowment from Mrs. Delos L. Hill, widow of Dr. Delos L. Hill, for many years a member of the dental college faculty. It was given as a memorial to her son, but until yesterday had never operated separately from the school's general clinic.

New quarters were provided with an additional gift of $5,000 this past summer. They were dedicated with ceremonies attended by trustees, officials of the college and others.

The clinic is equipped with nine junior chairs and units, private operating room and an administrative office for the director, Dr. John C. Brauer.

All children under 12 who are residents of Fulton, DeKalb and Cobb counties and whose parents or guardians have limited incomes are eligible for treatment at the clinic. The clinic is operated by junior and senior dental students.

Last year the children's clinic served 1,284 children.

DUCE'S FLYING SON JOINS CRACK FLEET IN SPANISH ATTACKS

Rome Reports Squadron of 23 Italian Planes Bomb Valencia.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Fascist reports of a crack new Italian fleet carrying Il Duce's aviator son in Spain and a pirate submarine's defiance of Britain's sea might tonight created what informed observers termed "an ugly situation" for world peace.

These two new factors brought France and Britain face to face with a grave turn of events made more critical by bitter warfare in two parts of the world.

Rome dispatches reported a squadron of 23 of Italy's best planes was believed to have made an inaugural plunge into the Spanish conflict by bombing Valencia. Premier Mussolini's son Bruno was said to be with the aerial expedition bolstering Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco's war machine.

Authoritative circles pointed out such an expedition not only violated Italy's non-intervention pledge but also the spirit of assurances recently given Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos, of France, and Britain's charge in Rome, E. M. B. Ingram, that there would be no further shipment of Italian volunteers to Spain.

A pirate attack on the British destroyer Basilisk off eastern Spain yesterday was deemed likely for cabinet consideration as well as the apparent Italian intention to push for an Insurgent Spanish victory before winter.

Spanish dispatches indicated avenging British warships already may have sunk the unknown submarine that launched a torpedo at the Basilisk while it took part in the Franco-British Mediterranean patrol against just such marauders.

The co-operating French and British maintained silence on the veiled threat of a note to Italy last week that non-intervention would be "extremely difficult to maintain" if Italian aid to Franco continued.

There was reluctance, informed quarters said, however, to reopen the French border to the Spanish government until Mussolini has had time to reply to the tri-power conference invitation.

with the Spanish Insurgent forces was interpreted by Fascist circles tonight to mean Il Duce is determined anew that the Insurgents must be victorious in Spain.

The Italian premier's permission to his son was seen as exemplification of Il Duce's Berlin speech saying that when words fail against "Bolshevism" arms must speak.

HAND-TO-HAND FIGHTING REPORTED AT MADRID
MADRID, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Spanish government troops fought forward tonight in a claw-like formation that threatened to trap several hundred Insurgents entrenched in an advance salient south of Madrid.

The government soldiers maneuvered under cover of nearly a hundred houses and Insurgent trenches they had captured earlier in the Urua suburbs until they virtually had isolated the Insurgents.

Both sides were fighting at close range with bayonets and hand grenades on ground that has been drenched with blood many times in the nine-month siege of Spain's capital.

DUKE AND DUCHESS ARRIVE IN GERMANY SUNDAY
PARIS, Oct. 5.—(UP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor announced tonight that their visit to Germany, which will start Sunday, is being entirely arranged by the Nazi government and that even they are unaware of all the details.

A statement given out by the Duke's secretary, J. H. Carter, said they would leave Paris at 6 p. m. Sunday, arriving in Berlin early Monday for an official greeting by representatives of Fuehrer Adolf Hitler.

Carter said that no date has been fixed for their departure for the United States.

WINDSOR TO LIVE ON ISLAND, BELIEF

GLEN COVE, N. Y., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Wealthy Long Islanders who entertained the Duke of Windsor in 1924 when he was Prince of Wales were of the opinion today that when he and the Duchess come to the United States, they will live on a little island in Chesapeake bay, off the eastern shore of Maryland.

The island is 20 miles north of Easton, Md., and about five miles from an eastern shore hamlet known as Wyes Mills in Queen Anne county.

The place is said to be owned by a Chicago man named Stilwell. A small house on the island is being converted into a mansion that will cost $300,000 when completed early next spring.

The alteration contract is being executed by a Philadelphia construction firm with which George Wharton Pepper Jr., son of a former United States senator from Pennsylvania, is reported to be connected.

Two Berlin Papers Kill F. D. R.'s Talk

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—(Wednesday)—Two Berlin newspapers threw out reports of President Roosevelt's Chicago address today after carrying them in early morning editions.

They were the Berliner Lokal-Anzeiger and the Berliner Tageblatt.

Five other morning newspapers published here failed to mention the address.

to forestall threats to world peace presented by both the Sino-Japanese crisis and the civil strife in Spain. In effect, the observers said, the President threw the United States' unqualified moral support to the League's efforts.

American participation in the League's efforts to solve the Sino-Japanese problem has been limited thus far, however, to a "consultative" status. The American minister to Switzerland, Leland Harrison, represents this government on the League's Far Eastern advisory committee, without voting rights in its deliberations and with instructions not to participate in consideration of any matters of policy toward the oriental conflict.

The Roosevelt speech today evoked high praise from the Chinese ambassador to this country, Sao-ke Alfred Sze.

Comment Favors Roosevelt Policy

By the United Press.

Senate reaction to President Roosevelt's Chicago speech was generally favorable, but Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, ranking Republican on the senate foreign relations committee, said at Boise, Idaho, that it would be "impossible to co-operate (with China) in this instance except to go to war."

Borah said all Americans would support the President's determination to avoid involvement in war.

Senator Pope, Democrat, Idaho, interpreted the speech as "an offer of friendship" to all nations endeavoring to preserve peace. Senator McGill, Democrat, Kansas, said it should serve as a warning of the consequences when nations violate their treaty obligations.

Other comment included: Senator Frazier, Republican, North Dakota—"I don't agree with the President that in order to keep out of war we have to spend as much money as other nations for arms in past history, big arms have always been a preparation for war."

Senator Ellender, Democrat, Louisiana—"The mistake the President made was not to name Japan and China. The speech was undoubtedly aimed chiefly at the Asiatic trouble. I would like to see them shove Japan into the bottom of the Pacific ocean."

Senator Thomas, Democrat, Utah—"President Roosevelt's understanding of world conditions as they exist today is not only correct but is so wise and so safe that anything that he might do as a result of that understanding may be relied on as being the best thing for the American people and the people of the world at large."

Senator Pepper, Democrat, Florida—"I don't understand how the moral force of any kind of treaty can be maintained unless the nine solemn signatories to the integrity of China do something to vindicate their pledges."

ing sides in civil warfare in nations that have never done them any harm. Nations claiming respect for themselves deny it to others.

"Innocent peoples and nations are being cruelly sacrificed to greed for power and supremacy which is devoid of all sense of justice and humane consideration."

While asserting that violation of such pacts as the Kellogg-Briand and nine-power treaties had threatened "the welfare and security of every nation," the President emphasized his "determination to pursue a policy of peace and to adopt every practicable measure to avoid involvement in war."

"There must be positive endeavors to preserve peace," he said. "America hates war. America hopes for peace. Therefore, America actively engages in the search for peace."

His 7,000-mile journey across the continent, the President said, had shown him "the happiness and security and peace which covers our wide land," but he also was "compelled to contrast our peace with very different scenes enacted in other parts of the world."

Situation Worse.

"The political situation in the world," he said, "which of late has been growing progressively worse, is such as to cause grave concern and anxiety to all the peoples and nations who wish to live in peace and amity with their neighbors."

"Some nine years ago the hopes of mankind for a continuing era of international peace were raised to great heights when more than 60 nations solemnly pledged themselves not to resort to arms in furtherance of their national aims and policies. The high aspirations expressed by the Kellogg-Briand pact thus have of late given way to haunting fear of calamity. The present reign of terror and international lawlessness began a few years ago."

"It began through unjustified interference in the internal affairs of other nations or the invasion of their territory in violation of treaties, and has now reached a stage where the very foundations of civilization are seriously threatened."

He called upon the peace-loving nations to "make a concerted effort to uphold laws and principles on which alone peace can rest secure."

International Anarchy.

"The peace-loving nations," he said, "must make a concerted effort in opposition to those violations of treaties and those ignorings of humane instincts which today are creating a state of international anarchy and instability from which there is no escape through mere isolation or neutrality."

The President saw "the peace, the freedom and the security of 90 per cent of the population of the world" endangered by "the remaining 10 per cent who are threatening a breakdown of all international order and law."

He asserted in a closing passage, "whether it be declared or undeclared. It can engulf states and peoples remote from the original scene of hostilities. We are determined to keep out of war, yet we cannot insure ourselves against the disastrous effects of war and the dangers of involvement. We are adopting such measures as will minimize our risk of involvement but we cannot have complete protection in a world of disorder in which confidence and security have been broken down."

President Roosevelt arrived in Chicago at 9:30 a. m. (C. S. T.) and left at 2 p. m. An estimated 1,000,000 persons saw him during his Chicago stay.

EUROPEAN REACTION SPLIT AS EXPECTED

LONDON, Oct. 5.—(UP)—European opinion divided along anticipated lines tonight after the impact of President Roosevelt's blow at aggressor nations.

The Chicago address was welcomed by Britain, France and Russia, but Germany, Italy and Japan were denounced as "demagogic and vague" by an Italian government official.

Great Britain might consider participating in an economic boycott against Japan if the United States or some other government definitely proposed sanctions, it was said.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden returned tonight from a brief vacation and immediately took up consideration of Mr. Roosevelt's speech.

The British cabinet, it was announced, will be summoned to meet Wednesday to consider the international situation and the Roosevelt speech when the full text is available.

Berlin Surprised.

First reaction in Berlin was one of surprise and even amazement at the President's apparent abandonment of the United States' traditional isolation policy. Many observers doubted that there would be such complete about-face in actual policy and believed the President was testing public reaction by means of a trial balloon. Neither the propaganda ministry nor the foreign office would comment until they had seen the full text of the speech, but the newspaper Tagesspiegel said: "Reprimands on moral grounds such as the President issued to the world have been heard from him before, without, however, the result of practical consequences therefrom for United States foreign policy. Specific mention of the Kellogg pact and the nine-power pact in the Chicago speech, however, leads to the assumption this time that the reprimands are meant as less theoretical."

"If it could be deduced that the United States intends hereafter to display greater concern over the sorrows of the rest of the world this surely must be welcomed pro-

Wages and Death In Direct Ratio, Survey Reveals

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Seven of the "ten horsemen of death," the diseases taking the most American lives annually, kill twice as many of the poor as of all other classes in this country.

These figures, from federal surveys still partly unpublished, were given to the American Public Health Association here today by Josephine Roche, assistant secretary of the treasury, in charge of public health.

The "ten horsemen" cause three out of every four American deaths. They are, she said, in order of deadliness, heart disease, cancer, pneumonia and influenza, cerebral hemorrhage, nephritis, tuberculosis, diabetes, diarrhea and enteritis, appendicitis and syphilis.

"Where do they strike most often and hardest?" she asked, said, "In the homes of the poor, of that one-third of our people, ill-fed, ill-housed, ill-clothed."

"That phrase must be amended by adding, ill-cared for, or not cared for at all, in sickness and death."

The death rate from respiratory tuberculosis is seven times as great among unskilled workers as among professional workers.

vided this concern is not based on a picture of the world created by the one-sided information of a President depicting things greatly out of focus.

"For the rest, it may be welcomed also by Germany if the United States, too, throws its weight in against the trouble mongers of the world."

Moscow's Viewpoint.

Official comment was lacking in Moscow, but it was pointed out that President Roosevelt's remarks coincided with the Soviet viewpoint on the necessity of peace-loving nations to co-operate against aggression.

French diplomatic and political quarters expressed the greatest satisfaction with the Chicago address, which they considered a timely warning to trouble makers. It was stated openly that the President's views summarized the principal lines of French foreign policy.

Italian thought was expressed tonight by a qualified official of the Italian government who characterized the Roosevelt address as "too demagogic and vague." He expressed doubt that the American President actually was informed of the present European situation.

"Apparently," he said, "the President is not thoroughly informed. There is only one grave danger in Europe today and that is Bolshevism. As long as Bolshevism is not completely wiped out there can be no peace in Europe."

PRO-AMERICAN WAVE SWEEPS OVER CHINA

SHANGHAI (Wednesday), Oct. 6. Chinese today interpreted President Roosevelt's Chicago speech indicating "aggressor" powers to mean that the United States eventually will join with Britain and other powers in enforcing an economic boycott against Japan.

The Chinese based their interpretation on the President's reference to a "quarantine" against aggressor nations.

They asserted that the "quarantine" of Japan which they have been demanding will be a general economic boycott of that country because of its "unjustified aggression in China."

Break Blockades.

Leaders in Nanking hoped that Mr. Roosevelt also envisaged measures to break Japan's naval blockade of China's coast so that China can obtain access to American and other foreign markets.

Some diplomats in Nanking believed that the speech may cause China to listen to overtures for mediation.

Its immediate effect was a great wave of pro-American sentiment throughout China. Morning newspapers held their presses until the advance text was released and printed the most fulsome editorials.

"WE'LL CARRY ON," JAPAN ANSWERS

TOKYO, Oct. 6.—(Wednesday)—The Japanese foreign office spokesman replied today to President Roosevelt's Chicago speech urging "quarantine" of aggressor nations with the statement that the "ideals of right" as conceived by western nations is incompatible with that of the Orient.

He declared that if President Roosevelt had the present Sino-Japanese conflict in mind in his speech, Japan's answer was that it was her intention to carry on "peaceful development" of the Asiatic continent for the sake of the Chinese as well as the Japanese peoples.

"What Japan wants," he said, "is peaceful co-operation between Japan and China. We are confident the thinking people of China will realize the true intentions of Japan and take course of mutual aid and co-operation for the peace of east Asia."

Restoration of Universal Peace Subject of President's Address

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The text of President Roosevelt's address here today follows:

I am glad to come once again to Chicago and to share with you the opportunity of taking part in the dedication of this important project of civic betterment.

On my trip across the continent and back I have been shown many evidences of the result of common sense co-operation between municipalities and the federal government, and I have been greeted by tens of thousands of Americans who have told me in every look and word that their material and spiritual well-being has made great strides forward in the past fifteen years.

And yet, as I have seen with my own eyes the prosperous farms, the thriving factories and the busy railroads—as I have seen the happiness and security and peace which covers our wide land, almost inevitably I have been compelled to contrast our peace with very different scenes being enacted in other parts of the world.

It is because the people of the United States under modern conditions must, for the sake of their own future, look to the rest of the world, that I, as the responsible executive head of the nation, have chosen this great inland city and this gala occasion to speak to you on a subject of definite national importance.

WORLD SITUATION

CAUSES CONCERN

The political situation in the world, which of late has been growing progressively worse, is such as to cause grave concern and anxiety to all the peoples and nations who wish to live in peace and amity with their neighbors.

Some nine years ago the hopes of mankind for a continuing era of international peace were raised to great heights when more than 60 nations solemnly pledged themselves not to resort to arms in furtherance of their national aims and policies. The high aspirations expressed in the Kellogg-Briand peace pact and the hopes for peace thus raised have of late given way to a haunting fear of calamity. The present reign of terror and international lawlessness began a few years ago.

It began through unjustified interference in the internal affairs of other nations or the invasion of alien territory in violation of treaties, and has now reached a stage where the very foundations of civilization are seriously threatened. The landmarks and traditions which have marked the progress of civilization towards a condition of law, order and justice are being wiped away.

THOUSANDS SLAIN IN UNDECLARED WARS

Without a declaration of war and without warning or justification of any kind civilians, including women and children, are being ruthlessly murdered with bombs from the air. In times of so-called peace ships are being attacked and sunk by submarines without cause or notice. Nations are fomenting and taking sides in civil warfare in nations that have never done them any harm. Nations claiming freedom for themselves deny it to others.

Innocent peoples and nations are being cruelly sacrificed to a greed for power and supremacy which is devoid of all sense of justice and humane consideration.

To paraphrase a recent author, "perhaps we foresee a technique of homicide, will rage so hotly over the world that every precious thing will be in danger, every book and picture and harmony, every pleasure garnered through two millenniums, the small, the delicate, the defenseless—all will be lost or wrecked or utterly destroyed."

If those things come to pass in other parts of the world, let no one imagine that America will escape, that it may expect mercy, that this western hemisphere will not be attacked and that it will continue tranquilly and peacefully to carry on the ethics and the arts of civilization.

If those days come "there will be no safety by arms, no help from authority, no answer in science. The storm will rage till every flower of culture is trampled and all human beings are leveled in a vast chaos."

PEACE-LOVING NATIONS MUST ACT IN CONCERT.

If those days are not to come to pass—if we are to have a world in which we can breathe freely and live in amity without fear—the peace-loving nations must make a concerted effort to uphold laws and principles on which alone peace can rest secure.

The peace-loving nations must make a concerted effort in opposition to those violations of treaties and those ignorings of humane instincts which today are creating a state of international anarchy and instability from which there is no escape through mere isolation or neutrality.

Those who cherish their freedom and recognize and respect the equal right of their neighbors to be free and live in peace must work together for the triumph of law and moral principles in order that peace, justice and confidence may prevail in the world. There must be a return to a belief in the pledged word, in the value of a signed treaty. There must be recognition of the fact that national morality is as vital as private morality.

A bishop wrote me the other day: "It seems to me that something greatly needs to be said in behalf of ordinary humanity against the present practice of carrying the horrors of war to helpless civilians, especially women and children. It may be that such a protest might be regarded by many, who claim to be realists, as futile, but may it not be that the heart of mankind is so filled with horror at the present needless suffering that that force could be mobilized in sufficient volume to lessen such cruelty in the days ahead. Even though it may take 20 years, which God forbid, for civilization to make effective its corporate protest against this barbarism, surely strong voices may hasten the day."

INTERNATIONAL ANARCHY DESTROYS ALL FOUNDATIONS

There is a solidarity and interdependence about the modern world, both technically and morally, which makes it impossible for any nation completely to isolate itself from economic and political upheavals in the rest of the world, especially when such upheavals appear to be spreading and not declining. There can be no stability or peace either within nations or between nations except under laws and stroy every foundation for peace. It jeopardizes either the immediate or the future security of every nation, large or small. It is, therefore, a matter of vital interest and concern to the people of the United States that the security of international treaties and the maintenance of international morality be restored.

The overwhelming majority of the peoples and nations of the world today want to live in peace. They seek the removal of barriers against trade. They want to exert themselves in industry, in agriculture and in business, that they may increase their wealth through the production of wealth-producing goods rather than striving to produce military planes and bombs and machine guns and cannon for the destruction of human lives and useful property.

In those nations of the world which seem to be piling armament on armament for purposes of aggression, and those other nations which fear acts of aggression against them and their security, a very high proportion of the national income is being spent directly for armaments. It runs from 30 to as high as 50 per cent.

The proportion that we in the United States spend is far less—11 or 12 per cent.

U. S. PUTS ITS MONEY TO USEFUL PURPOSES

How happy we are that the circumstances of the moment permit us to put our money into bridges and boulevards, dams and reforestation, the conservation of our soil and many other kinds of useful works rather than into huge standing armies and vast supplies of implements of war.

I am compelled and you are compelled, nevertheless, to look ahead. The peace, the freedom and the security of 90 per cent of the population of the world is being jeopardized by the remaining 10 per cent who are threatening a breakdown of all international order and law. Surely the 90 per cent who want to live in peace under law and in accordance with moral standards that have received almost universal acceptance through the cen-

GEORGIA POWER COMPANY

Convicted Youth Escapes Deputy At Courthouse

Something new in the way of escapes was registered yesterday at the Fulton county courthouse as a 20-year-old white youth, just convicted of auto theft, broke free from the grasp of a deputy sheriff and made a successful dash to freedom before the ink on his sentence was dry.

Harold Thacker, of a Georgia avenue address, had been found guilty by a superior court jury and sentenced by Judge John D. Humphries to five years on the chain gang.

As the prisoner rode downstairs on a special elevator in custody of Deputy Sheriff G. L. Hulsey he stood quietly. But as he stepped from the car into the basement corridor that leads to the detention room, he jerked loose from the hefty sheriff's grasp and fled around a corner in the basement with the sheriff in hot pursuit.

Thacker escaped by way of an alley across from the courthouse, it was said. Meanwhile, Deputy Clerk Charles Hartfield sat upstairs writing out the five-year sentence for the already twice convicted youth.

On parole from the penitentiary at the time of his conviction, Thacker had served sentences for burglary and auto theft in 1934.

Radio broadcasts giving the youth's description were sent out yesterday as city and county police launched a search for the fugitive.

ARMY OF WORKMEN SPEED FAIR WORK

Gates Are Ready To Swing Open To Thousands at Gala Event Thursday.

An army of workmen moved into high gear yesterday at Lakewood park, as it began the annual last-minute rush to complete all details pertaining to the grand premiere of the twenty-third annual Southeastern Fair and Atlanta Centennial Thursday.

Promptness Record. Rubin & Cherry's Exposition set a new record for promptness, when the officials announced Tuesday that every show and riding device has been set and ready for operation. It's the first time that any midway attractions have been on the grounds and ready, 24 hours before the fair opened its gates.

Rubin & Cherry are not alone in paving the way for an early start for the United States Department of Agriculture's big exhibit in the basement of the educational building has been set up and is completed. The big agriculture exhibit is under the direction of I. D. Phillips, special representative from Washington, and it required three special cars to bring the exhibit.

3 GOVERNORS PLAN FREIGHT RATE TALK

Rivers To Suspend Legislative Conference Today To Discuss Campaign.

Governor Rivers will suspend his legislative conference today long enough to meet with two other southern governors on their movement for lower commodity freight rates from the south.

With Governors Bibb Graves, of Alabama, and Olin D. Johnston, of South Carolina, he will discuss a petition the Interstate Commerce Commission will review at Birmingham November 10.

Three-Way Attack. This movement is one branch of a three-way attack the southern governors are making against "discriminatory freight rates" on goods moving from or into the south.

Governor Browning, of Tennessee, heads a group working for lower "class rates" while the Georgia Public Service Commission is prosecuting a case before the commission involving the general principle of uniform rates throughout the nation. This morning's meeting will be held at 10 o'clock at the Henry Grady hotel.

Legislative Conference. In the legislative conferences the state administration's program of prison reform and of increased contributions to county social security operating costs are two subjects, Governor Rivers said yesterday, that are gaining "very favorable reaction."

Very little legislation will be necessary, he said, to carry out the program calling for "public works camps" to replace existing highway and chain gang camps, and for a new system of segregating criminals in penal institutions.

The State Education Department will furnish instructors, a penologist and a psychiatrist at Tattall county prison to carry on work of rehabilitating habitual criminals.

Tattall Farm. The University Board of Regents will furnish the administrative personnel for experimental agricultural work to be undertaken on the Tattall farm, and the highway department will operate a model "public works camp" at a state-owned rock quarry in Elbert county.

The Tattall prison will be the center of the new system, he explained, with habitual criminals and those difficult to handle being kept there and others being stationed at state or county-operated camps.

Security Expenses. The suggestion for the state to contribute more money toward administrative expenses of the social security program in the various counties came from Welfare Director Lamar Murdaugh.

He recommended an amendment which would allow part of the $3,000,000 fund earmarked for pensions to be used for county expenses.

Rivers said he was recommending such a step "during the present emergency the counties are facing," and also was conferring "generally about other amendments the members want in the Social Security Act."

ATLANTA, GA., OCTOBER 6, 1937.

CROP CONTROL IS ESSENTIAL.

The necessity for some form of control over the agricultural crops of the nation is self-evident. The record of past years proves beyond the possibility of argument that economic disasters will steadily recur for the farmers of the nation if there is no restriction over the total output of any product of the soil. Year after year overproduction has driven prices so low that the farmer has sold his products at less than the cost of production, a condition which spells, in kindergarten simplicity, ruin.

President Roosevelt, in his speeches during his present tour of the west, has emphasized the pressing need for a twin program on agriculture, the safeguarding of farmers' income and the preservation of soil fertility. There can be no sound denial of the urgency of these needs.

The Agricultural Adjustment Act, declared unconstitutional by the supreme court, had many objectionable features, but at the same time it did succeed, in some degree, in achieving its objective of crop control. It is not necessary to re-enact a duplicate of that measure and again submit it to the scrutiny of the supreme court. Some plan, without the objectionable features, yet retaining the benefits of the AAA, can be worked out.

There is sufficient wisdom in congress, among the farm leaders and in the general intelligence of the people, to work out a satisfactory solution of the problem.

The ideal method would be through voluntary co-operative effort on the part of the farmers. This road has been successfully followed in some sections for some crops, but in most cases it has been demonstrated that successful co-operation cannot be achieved. This is notably true in regard to cotton.

Therefore, some other means to limit the crops of the nation must be found, a means which will reach the happiest possible compromise between income for the farmers and reasonably priced food for the nation.

President Roosevelt, speaking at St. Paul, summarized the hopes of the nation when he said:

"It must be repeated, over and over again, that such a policy (the proposed national farm act) is intended not only to maintain farmers' prices by holding down huge surpluses which destroy those prices, but also to assure adequate supplies of food to the consuming public . . . at reasonable prices. There must never be a shortage of food—nor must the price of food rise so greatly that the consuming public cannot afford to eat."

Certainly there can be no questioning the wisdom of the President's position, and he must receive the full and earnest support of the agricultural interests of the country if the farmer is to be placed on a basis of reasonable and permanent prosperity.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS.

James G. Stahlman, president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, speaking in New York, warns that the freedom of the press, in this country, is not something to be taken for granted, but a heritage of the people which they must be constantly alert to safeguard.

The freedom of the press is not a prerogative of publishers or editors. It is a public right, as essential to the American form of government as freedom of speech, freedom of religion and freedom of assembly. It is held in trust by the publishers for all citizens and it is a matter vital to every man or woman in the country.

President Stahlman feels that attempts have been made to "fetter" the press of America. That such attempts have failed is evident when American newspapers are compared to the regimented press in many European countries. The state of servitude to the controlling political power of the moment under which that press operates should serve as constant warning to this country.

Yet, the press of those dictator-ruled European nations proclaims, under duress, it is still "free." Therein lies clearer and more emphatic warning, for it reveals that the treasure may be stolen while yet the guardian believes it is safe.

Alertness at all times to guard the basic rights of American citizenship is the necessary price which we must pay if this nation is to retain its liberty and uphold for another century and a half the foundation stone upon which all our rights are built, the federal constitution.

WISE—AND UNWISE—PAROLES

Federal District Judge E. Marvin Underwood, in his charge to the grand jury for the district court, commends extensive use of the parole system as a means of rehabilitating as good citizens once again men who have violated the law.

The federal system of granting paroles has provision for the supervision of the activities of the parolees after they have thus been conditionally released from prison. Extensive use of such a system, under the close control exercised by federal officers, is undeniably beneficial.

The haphazard system in use in most states, however, is leading to such widespread abuses that the good results are overbalanced by the evil.

The preponderance of criminal convictions are secured in state courts. And there are few states which have a really competent organization for the enforcement of parole regulations. The result is that the convict is set free practically on his own promise, alone, to lead a reformed life, with the result that an alarming proportion of crime is perpetrated by congenial criminals who have been set free by too sentimental, or too political, state authorities and with no real supervision of their lives afterwards.

When the states create systems of parole control commensurate in efficiency with that of the federal government, wide use of the probation system will be desirable. Modern penology is based upon the theory of reformation and rehabilitation of the criminal, rather than upon blind punishment by an outraged society.

However, with parole conditions as they are, in most state prison systems, it is doubtful if the advantage gained by returning so many criminals to freedom before completion of the sentence is worth the tremendous amount of crime, with all its contingent suffering and expense, and its threat to the public welfare, which is perpetrated in this country by parolees who were not ready for the privilege of free life.

IN DEFENSE OF FREE ASSEMBLY

London policemen, mounted and afoot, swinging clubs and batons, charged into a mob of anti-Fascists which was determined to halt a parade of British Fascists. As a result scores of injured went to hospitals and jails after one of the wildest riots in modern London history.

Thus the world is once more shown the determination of the British that every man, regardless of his opinions, shall have a right to express those opinions. It was a replica, on enlarged scale, of the practice in Hyde Park, every Sunday, when radical speakers spout from their soap boxes all sorts of subversive, even treasonable, doctrines under the protection of complacent Bobbies. England believes that every man has a right to free speech in the expression of his beliefs.

The whole world knows that the great mass of British opinion, as well as the official government, has small sympathy for Fascism. Yet the police are called out in full force to prevent interference with a Fascist demonstration. No incident could be more typically British.

Of course, England is not merely upholding a theory in this attitude toward Fascists or any other extremists. There is deep sagacity in the policy.

For suppression of all the advocates of wild isms only aids in spreading their doctrines. There is nothing so effective in spreading a cause as martyrdom.

London's Bobbies, far from making martyrs of the Fascists, defend them. The only martyrs are the unwise unfortunates of the anti-Fascist mob who obtruded their skulls in the path of swinging police batons.

A federal study of the tails of 200 pigs shows 98 turning to the right, 98 to the left and four with no political philosophy.

Due to an odd similarity of a ruin to another ruin, it would be enough if the retoucher painted a few Chinese into the Madrid photos.

In time, all the engines of war may be operated by remote control. Then every day in the army will be like Sunday on the farm.

Very little would be needed at this juncture to set the world on fire. Suppose some Russian general were assassinated by a Japanese instead of Stalin.

What with counting sheep at night and his marching minions all day, it's wonderful that Hitler's insomnia stands up so well.

The nationality of that pirate sub was never affirmed, but we understand the crew liked to sing, "Yo, ho, ho, and a bottle of chianti."

Editorial of the Day

THE LAW SHOULD BE ENFORCED

(From The Detroit Free Press.)

At least three young and able-bodied brothers in Detroit now realize that the law requiring them to support their aged and poverty stricken father has teeth in it.

Judge Thomas C. Murphy, of the Wayne County probate court, slapped them in jail for ignoring a court order to contribute $1.25 each, weekly, to their father's maintenance.

Section 8226 of the Compiled Laws of Michigan (1929) requires sons and daughters, who have sufficient means to do so, to provide support, up to $20 a week, for parents who have no property and who are incapacitated by age or otherwise from earning a living.

The only exception to this obligation is where the son or daughter can prove that he or she was abandoned or neglected by the parents before reaching the age of 16 years.

Section 8208 goes further and provides that "the husband, wife, father, grandfather, mother, grandmother and children of any poor person, being of sufficient ability, shall jointly and severally relieve, maintain and support such poor person."

Vigorous enforcement of the law respecting maintenance of relatives would take a load off the taxpayers, and might also do something to revive that family pride, which formerly made it a disgrace to let any relative go to the poorhouse, but which is fast disappearing under the influence of the idea that government should assume the responsibilities of the individual.

SENATOR BLACK INVESTIGATES KU KLUX KLAN

Fifty million people attended on Friday the investigation of Mr. Justice Black by ex-Senator Hugo Black. The large audience was attracted by the prominence of the two figures and the clash of two powerful personalities.

Senator Black has established a national reputation for the vigor, scope and incisiveness, if not ruthlessness, of his investigations of corporations and malpractices in American life. His far-reaching use of secret documents has been particularly brilliant, and his cross-examination of witnesses on the stand has been nothing less than devastating. Evasive witnesses of dim remembrance have squirmed on the stand as their investigator confronted them with facts and documents born to blush unseen, which they assumed had been lost or forgotten. He is well known for his insatiable passion for facts, and his remorseless logic in drawing deductions from them.

The investigation, therefore, of Justice Black by Senator Hugo Black was not only attended by the largest audience in American history, but is a model of clarity and precision which will elicit the admiration of future students of public inquiries.

The cross-examination proceeded as follows:

Senator Black: Mr. Justice, what is the supreme law of our country?

Justice Black: The Constitution.

Senator Black: And what is its heart?

Justice Black: The bill of rights.

Senator Black: Mr. Justice, do you believe that any movement, or action of any group that threatens complete liberty of religious belief is a menace to freedom, and incompatible with the spirit of the Bill of Rights?

Justice Black: I do, indeed.

Senator Black: Did you believe this to be true in 1923?

Justice Black: "No words have ever been or ever will be spoken by me, directly or indirectly, indicating that any native or foreign born person in our free country should or could be restricted in his right to worship according to the dictates of his conscience."

Senator Black: Were you in 1923 a member of the Ku-Klux Klan?

Justice Black: I was.

Senator Black: What was the inevitable effect of this organization on American life?

Justice Black: Frankly, Mr. Senator, "I tended to revive religious discord or antagonism, which could spread with such rapidity as to imperil the vital constitutional protection of one of the most sacred of human rights. It brought the political religionist back into undeserved and perilous influence in affairs of government. It elevated the least worthy to political position, because religion or race barred the door to a passer-by. It bankrupted many business men whose sole offense was that they had religious beliefs which did not accord with the prevailing religion in their communities. It set neighbor against neighbor and turned old friends into new enemies."

Senator Black: Mr. Justice, why, since these are, according to your own testimony, your beliefs, and always have been your beliefs, did you join the Klan?

Justice Black: I don't recall.

Senator Black: What part did the Klan play in electing you to the senate?

Justice Black: I don't recall.

Senator Black: Why did you resign from the Klan?

Justice Black: I don't recall.

Senator Black: Were you not afterward, while you were a member of the senate, reinstated in the Klan?

Justice Black: I never asked for reinstatement. I didn't use the card.

Senator Black: Didn't you receive this membership card at a meeting of the Klan, and didn't you publicly acknowledge your indebtedness to the Klan for your election, and didn't you in receiving the card again indicate your solidarity with the principles of its members?

Justice Black: I don't recall.

Senator Black: Are there no records, stenographic reports, or other documents from this period of your Klan membership, which could be subpoenaed to throw light on this important question?

Justice Black: "What appears now or what appeared then on the records of the organization, I do not know."

Senator Black: You frequently availed yourself of the senatorial power of subpoena in investigations, did you not?

Justice Black: The Ku-Klux Klan is not the Western Union.

Senator Black: But Mr. Justice, you were once bound to the Klan by ties of fraternity and sworn aid one to another. Would they not be glad to give you the records, as a fraternal act?

Mr. Justice Black: I have not asked for them.

Senator Black: When your name came before the senate for confirmation as an associate justice of the United States supreme court, certain senators said that you had been a member of the Ku-Klux Klan, and other senators, presumably upon information from you, who alone was qualified to answer, said that you were not. Where were you during this debate?

Justice Black: In the cloakroom.

Senator Black: Is it your opinion that if the President or the senate had known of your affiliation with the Klan, you would have been appointed to the supreme court?

Justice Black: I stand upon my constitutional right not to answer.

Senator Black: Is it not true, then, Mr. Justice, that your refusal to admit membership in the Klan constitutes the withholding of a material fact, and that essentially, therefore, you hold office by false pretense?

Justice Black: I stand on my record of 11 years in the senate.

Senator Black: Mr. Justice, isn't it a fundamental doctrine of the Klan that the leopard cannot change his spots?

Justice Black: It all depends upon whether he is a liberal leopard or a conservative leopard.

Senator Black: Inasmuch as you stand upon your record in the senate, I now quote from your record in the senate in the investigation of a Mr. Tate, as a prospective member of the Interstate Commerce Commission. I should like to refresh your memory. Mr. Tate had been an attorney for the Southern Railway. Did you, or did you not, comment on that appointment as follows: "As a general rule, a man follows in the future a course that he has followed in the past. Show me the kind of steps a man made in the sands five years ago, and I will show you the kind of steps he is likely to make in the sand five years hence?"

Justice Black: I don't remember, but I suppose I said it.

Senator Black: Have you or have you not, in conducting senate inquiries, constantly challenged the competence of witnesses on the basis of their past or present affiliations?

Justice Black: I have.

Senator Black: You believe then, that once a Tory always a Tory?

Justice Black: I do.

Senator Black: And once a Klansman always a Klansman?

Justice Black: I don't.

Senator Black: You believe then, Mr. Justice, that a young man can join the Klan, tacitly accept its brutalities and persecutions, use it as a stepping stone to the senate and higher offices, and repudiate it if the fact comes out, without apology or explanation?

Justice Black: If one makes a liberal record.

Senator Black: If this method was to be recommended in the past, is there any reason why it should not be recommended to ambitious young politicians in the future?

Justice Black: I think it is a serious mistake to keep on talking about this matter.

Senator Black: Why?

Justice Black: Because it will tend to revive the Klan, which stands for everything odious.

Senator Black: You mean that investigation of facts is fraught with public danger?

Justice Black: It is, now. "This is a broken sword and a camp which fans the flames of prejudice."

Senator Black: You mean that the revelation that you were a Klansman fans the flames, and the fact that you were a Klansman does not?

Justice Black: When this statement is ended my discussion of the question is closed. "The character of the man of every public servant should be subject to constant scrutiny."

Senator Black: Is that not a nonsequitur, Justice? Whose business is it to close an inquiry? The business of the investigator or of the man investigated?

Justice Black: In this case, I have made great concessions. "I have broken with the precedents of the past to speak to you tonight."

Senator Black: Do you believe, then, that senatorial inquiries should be discontinued, as not conducive to the public welfare?

Justice Black: Not at all. But my position carries with it immunity.

Senator Black: Ah, the immunity of the supreme bench. Its members, you believe, are above investigation? They are not ordinary men? They should be investigated with every dignity and every privilege that always been your viewpoint?

Justice Black: My discussion of this question is closed.

Senator Black: Thank you very much. This has been extremely illuminating. America's millions thank you for your candor and logic.

The investigation adjourned on Friday, October 1, at 9:41 p. m. Asked for a statement on the inquiry, Dr. Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard of the Invisible Empire, Knights of the Ku-Klux Klan, said: "Mr. Black has a judicial mind. He will make a great judge on the bench. His concept of religious and political freedom is sound Americanism."

Just a Minute—

WITH IRVIN S. COBB.

SANTA MONICA, Cal. Oct. 5.—Master Rollo and 7, and city raised, was visiting relatives in the country. On his first morning he came in wearing a worried cast of countenance.

"Mother," he said, "I've been out under the mulberry trees."

"Yes."

"Mother, do mulberries have hard backs and six legs and crawl around on the ground?"

"Why, certainly not."

"Then, mother," said Rollo in stricken tones, "I feel I have made a dreadful mistake."

What's the point? Oh, nothing, only I got to imagining what the regretful of some members of the senate and a majority of the members of the senate must be, when they recall the alacrity with which they moved to fill a certain recent vacancy in a certain very high court—in fact, the highest one we've got.

Comment Upon

The Inconsiderate Sex.

Did you ever consider how much pleasanter this world would be if the average woman was as polite in her everyday contacts as the average man? It's a fact, and the girls needn't argue to the contrary. The proof is there for everyone to see, in stores and streets and everywhere the people congregate.

First of all, let's find a good definition for politeness. It is, simply, consideration for others. Don't confuse politeness with the little formalities. They constitute something allied, but really different. They amount to etiquette. But politeness, that consideration for other people and that automatic attitude of fair play, is something much bigger.

Here is a typical illustration of the feminine lack of that politeness which most men automatically practice.

Scene In

A Hardware Store.

It was in a hardware store. The store, for some reason or other, was terribly short of clerks. Only one fellow behind the counter. He was waiting on a masculine customer and there were four others, all of the trousered sex, waiting.

Two women came in together. What did they do? The same a normally decent man would do, wait in line for their turn? No, sir. They marched straight to the counter and interrupted the clerk in his conversation with the customer and said, "We want a hammer."

The poor clerk had to wait on them. Because, he, too, was only a downtrodden male, lacking the courage, or something, to answer them as they deserved. Don't blame him. Ninety-nine out of a hundred men are similarly weak with the opposite sex. I am myself.

So he turned to find a hammer for the women. I don't believe he hit 'em in the head with it. Probably just sold it, after they had spent fifteen minutes inspecting the hammers in the store before making their selection.

Whatever the outcome, I don't know. For I left and made my purchase elsewhere.

Isn't that typical of women? And isn't it impolite?

Quite Usual

Experiences.

Such experiences are not unusual. In fact they are the expected. Only last Monday I walked, similarly, out of a drug store after the lone clerk had spent ten minutes discussing the advantages of various proprietary medicines with a woman customer who finally walked out without buying anything. Then a little creature in a white skirt demanded his attention, despite the fact that she had just walked in and there were two of us—men—waiting.

Incidentally, why don't retail stores keep more salespeople? Many of them have plenty, but others seem to be constantly short-handed in this respect. Maybe business would improve and a lot of deserving people would find jobs, if there were enough clerks so we didn't have to waste time standing around and wandering from store to store trying to find service.

Reverting to the case on feminine lack of politeness—How many times have you had to walk around a group holding a social gathering on a busy street and completely blocking the greater width of the sidewalk? And what percentage of such sidewalk conversation is composed of inquiries? I thought so.

How many times have you had a swinging door pushed in your face because the person coming through the opposite door was keeping to the left instead of the right? And what percentage of such wrong-door pushers are women? I thought so.

Did you ever see three women turn one street car seat backwards so the three could face each other and monopolize seating accommodations on a crowded car, for four people? And weren't these trios that would compel a fourth patron to stand, unnecessarily, always feminine threesomes?

Who pushes ahead for the usher's attention at a theater, regardless of others patiently waiting in line? A woman, invariably.

Who cuts across a busy street intersection when driving a car, thus blocking traffic both ways, and then smiles at the traffic cop to forestall a ticket, or a reprimand? Why, yes, and now as the column comes to an end, I can hear, in imagination, a shrill breakfast-table chorus:

"Well, just by writing that, he's proven he's no gentleman!"

Twenty-Five

Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Sunday, October 6, 1912:

"The Atlanta School for Deaf Children opened last Thursday morning with a small attendance. It is one of the regular public school grades and is located at Ashby street school, but children may attend from any part of the city."

And Fifty

Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Thursday, October 6, 1887:

"Professor Bristol's horse show, in DeGives' opera house, drew an immense crowd of spectators last night and yesterday afternoon. The beautiful and intelligent animals astonished everybody."

Chester Alan Arthur was born in 1830. He was removed from the only office he ever held, collector of the port of New York, less than three years before, Garfield's assassination elevated him from vice president to 21st President of the United States.

A Family Fight Is More Important Than a National Crisis If You Think About It More

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

As a hypnotized person does as the hypnotist directs, without realizing that he is at the mercy of another's will, so millions of literate people, who believe themselves free and independent, unconsciously do the will of the propagandist.

If you take part in some violent action, it is probable that you are the unwitting tool of another man's mind. If you doubt it, ask yourself whether you conceived the idea of violent action yourself, and whether you would have acted so if the other man had said nothing to move you.

When a small-town merchant plans a sale to clear his shelves, and distributes circulars or uses a newspaper advertisement one day only, most people read his announcement and promptly forget it. But if these same people see new advertisements day after day, and face some arresting reminder of the sale at every turn, the impression on their minds is deep and lasting. They think about the sale and talk about it, and it occupies first place in their minds. A smart merchant has harnessed the power or repetition to magnify importance.

To the mind that is not filled with some matter of absorbing interest, like that of a scientist concentrated on an experiment, an unimportant matter is made important by noisy and insistent repetition.

The Pulse of the Public

The columns of The Constitution are always open to the expressions of the public, regardless of the opinion expressed. The only limitation on communications is that they shall be signed, be brief—preferably not longer than two or three hundred words—and not libelous. All communications will be subject to editing, and none will be returned unless postage is enclosed.

STATES CASE OF 40-YEAR-OLD BOYS.

Editor Constitution: I wish to commend you very highly for your splendid editorial relating to employment of men over 40 years of age. Due to circumstances beyond my control, I am out of employment, and simply because I happen to be (unfortunately) 40 years of age, it has up to now been impossible to interest businessmen with my services.

I feel no older at 40 than I did at 21, and through the years I have gained valuable information, have seasoned in my judgment, and am now really prepared to go to work and put in practice what

I have been learning during the past 20 years. I served in the World War which was a drawback, in that I lost two years of experience in my chosen line of endeavor, while others were at home getting the gravy in good salaries—I was getting $30 per month, while at the same time defending our great country as best I could, in any way that I could.

Inasmuch as I own my own home and pay taxes I am entitled to live in Atlanta and be permitted to earn an honest living for my family and myself. Otherwise, if we 40-year-old boys are laid on the shelf and are forced to become night watchmen and the like, where are the taxes coming from to keep in operation the governments of the city, the county, the state, and the United States? I wish to again thank you for your interest in this matter, and trust you will keep up the good work, as you can constantly keep the matter before the public, while we 40-year-old boys can only contact a very few with our feeble efforts.

OUR FRIENDSHIP WITH CHINA.

Editor Constitution: Some of our religious people base their feeling of security in China and Japan on the theory that these nations are composed of two groups, one for war and the other for peace. That their mission is to succor the latter group under all hazards. This folly is pursued by the American with property interests in China, imbued with the idea of his rights only.

Secretary of State Hull says, "None of our rights in China will be relinquished." But what are our rights there?

Britain's superior footing in China dates from the opium war about 1840. This act of Britain in attempting to sustain her Indian opium traffic cost China 21 or more million dollars as indemnity to the English for her bombardment to open the Chinese ports to this nefarious trade. Thus we determine the British methods of friendship with the Chinese.

The record of America's friendship with China is given verbatim as follows: "It is generally believed that so far as regards the peaceful and profitable intercourse with China, the United States and Russia have obtained the greatest advantage from the complications of 1857-58 at the smallest risk." And further the record says: "And it is a significant fact that by the first article of the treaty, China claims the good offices of the United States in any future case of collision with other powers."

The important consideration for the United States is whether our "advantages" in China dating from 1857-58 are worth a possible war with Japan and possibly Italy and Germany as allies against us. The ratio of "advantages" seems to stand now for the United States and Britain in China, as one to seven in favor of the latter.

Irene Recalls Emory Memories of 1925

Irene Dunne, winsome soprano who sang in the role of Ursula and Dudley Marwick, basso who played a comedy part in "The Gypsy Baron" in the Atlanta Municipal Opera during the week of July 5, 1925. This photo of Miss Dunne and Marwick was taken at this time on a visit by them to the Emory campus. Now Miss Dunne is starring in the film, "High Wide and Handsome" at the Fox theater. Emory University students today are to witness the movie in repayment of the visit that Miss Dunne made to the Emory campus 12 years ago.

Emory Students Tonight Will Repay 1925 Campus Visit of Irene Dunne

Film Star To Be Honored by University Delegation at Fox Theater's 'Emory Night' She Appeared in Atlanta Opera Roles 12 Years Ago.

Shades of 1925!

Emory University students tonight are to repay a visit made by Irene Dunne to the Emory campus more than 12 years ago.

The students are to attend in a body a free showing of "High, Wide and Handsome" film at the Fox theater. Miss Dunne is cast in the star's role, with Randolph Scott playing opposite.

In July, 1925, Atlanta was supporting a municipal opera company. Miss Dunne was then a musical comedy star. She came to Atlanta and accepted a minor role in the light opera.

Nine members of the Emory University Glee Club were in the chorus of the company at that time. They invited Miss Dunne, Dudley Marwick, Anne Yago and another member of the cast to visit the campus. The invitation was accepted.

In addition the quartet gave a brief program at Emory chapel exercises. Howard Candler, now president of the board of regents, was then president of the opera company.

Miss Dunne's first opera role was in "The Gypsy Baron," a gem of the Atlanta opera list beginning the week of July 5, 1925. She sang the role of Ursula, and Dudley Marwick, basso, played a comedy part.

Others in Cast.

Others in the cast included Anne Yago, contralto who played the part of a gypsy woman. The leading feminine role was in the hands of Charlotte Ryan, Grand Metropolitan Opera star. Critics at that time explained that Miss Ryan was chosen for this role because "her lines call for grand opera singing and light opera vivacity."

Music for the opera was composed of Johann Strauss, whose chief work in this particular opera took Europe by storm. Miss Dunne sang "On to Vienna" in this opera, and was assisted by Mary Anderson.

Tonight at the Fox theater party designated as "Emory Night," the Glee Club will lead the audience in singing of the Alma Ma-

Bulldogs Claiming Theft of Sundial

An enraged Georgia Bulldog barked viciously yesterday—a Bear had stolen his thunder. The Mercer Bears had gotten credit for moving the Tech sundial from the campus to the downtown area and the Bulldog didn't like the Bear sucking his honey.

The Bulldog wrote "a group of Georgia students went to Atlanta Friday night and perpetrated the above said noble act. Yours for veracity and freedom of the press, a Georgia Bulldog."

Mercer played Tech the following afternoon.

SEWING ROOM FATE IN BIBB IS IN DOUBT

Commissioners Defer Action on Appropriation.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 5.—(P)—Bibb county commissioners today deferred action toward appropriating funds for resumption of the WPA sewing room here.

The sewing room, employing about 300 Macon women with a monthly pay roll of about $11,000, was discontinued last Thursday when the city and county failed to raise $900 a month as its share of the expense for the federal project.

Commissioners said they would await action by the city before attempting to make provisions for the sewing room.

The Americus club also is expected to propose that the Jaycees sponsor a movement for uniform time throughout the state.

Another proposal expected to receive attention of the convention would inaugurate a campaign to keep cattle off the highways.

SCHISM CLIMAXED IN COURT ACTION TO BAR MINISTER

Center Hill Baptist Church
Deacons Secure Order Restraining Rev. Walker.

Strife in the Center Hill Baptist church was climaxed yesterday when Judge John D. Humphries granted a temporary injunction restraining the pastor, the Rev. R. D. Walker, from setting foot on the church grounds or conducting services at the church.

The petition was brought by S. W. Burgess and T. E. W. Smith, members of the board of deacons at the church.

Three deacons, S. E. Bobo, R. E. Finch and E. R. Fitzgerald, were appointed by the court to have control of the church property and affairs pending the outcome of the hearing October 15.

Work "Crippled." For three years, the two deacons set out in their petition, there has been "strife, dissension and dissatisfaction" in the membership which has "seriously crippled" the work of the church.

Centering around the Rev. Walker, dissension has continued since 1934 to "trouble, hamper and hinder" the benevolent work of the church, which owns and operates $10,000 worth of property, it is charged.

Trouble which seemed at an end when the pastor's resignation was accepted by the deacons September 8 had in fact just begun, according to the petitioners.

The pastor Sunday "without previous notice" called a special conference of the church to decide whether he should continue with the board of deacons in regard to terminating his service, they claimed.

Termed "Subterfuge." But this was a "subterfuge and scheme" of the pastor to have himself reinstated, and to have the board of deacons and officers of the church dismissed, the two petitioners assert.

A portion of the membership responding to the call of the Rev. Walker met Sunday and passed three motions, all of which are illegal, under parliamentary procedure, petitioners claim.

The first motion passed was to dismiss the board of deacons, the second reinstated the pastor, and the third dismissed all officers and teachers of the church and Sunday school, the petition sets out.

This, however, is illegal, the two deacons contend, because a motion duly seconded for adjournment was on the floor before the last two motions.

The status of the church under the actions Sunday leaves it with no officers to handle the affairs, petitioners contend, and asked the court to enjoin the pastor from setting up his own officers and to name a body of three to govern church affairs pending a hearing. The three deacons are not to call a pastor, however, under the order, but are merely authorized to handle financial affairs and direct regular church meetings temporarily.

CHIEF OF D. A. R. WARNS OF CRISIS

America Declared at 'Spoiled Child Age.'

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Oct. 5. (AP)—America is facing its third great crisis—preservation of true democracy—Mrs. William A. Becker, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, declared today.

The nation, she asserted in an address before the New York state conference of the D. A. R., has reached "the spoiled child stage, where everything is demanded as a right."

"Democracy," Mrs. Becker declared, "is still the hope of the world, the way to peace and justice. No other road leads that way."

Attorneys Hear and Then Ponder Ultimatum Delivered by Judge

William R. Bentley, left, and Guy Tyler, attorneys, "must talk," Judge Eugene D. Thomas, of Fulton county superior court, ruled yesterday when he gave them 48 hours to disclose the names of those who retained them to defend bug suspects or be adjudged in contempt of court. A writ of supersedeas for an appeal was denied, and the attorneys retired to decide on what course they will pursue. Bentley reiterated his announced intention "not to talk," as he contended it would be a "betrayal" of his clients' confidence.

LAWYERS ORDERED TO REVEAL CLIENTS

the confidences of my clients," he said. "I know that the higher courts will sustain our position in this matter. I shall appeal to every court in the land before I will submit to a clearly illegal procedure."

Andrews last night indicated he will insist that the court order be complied with within the 48-hour period, although he refused to be quoted.

In the case of Bentley, Andrews agreed, because of an out-of-town engagement by the attorney, to give him a three-day notice of whatever the judgment of the court may be, thus deferring execution of the judgment until about 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Bentley said he had planned a business trip to Miami for the past several days and announced last night that it is imperative that he leave for the Florida city early this morning.

Contempt Possibility. If, however, Andrews does insist that the order of the court be complied with and Bentley absents himself from the city as planned, he probably will be adjudged in contempt.

Tyler made no request for a three-day notice at a late hour last night, and none was contemplated.

In announcing his decision, Judge Thomas said:

"The questions asked were relevant, proper, legal and not a violation of the confidential relations which exist between an attorney and his client."

The scheduled morning hearing of the case was adjourned precipitately after Andrews attempted futilely to produce bills of indictment which were before the grand jury and on which Bentley and Tyler were questioned.

Failure of Andrews to find the indictments in his personal papers led him to remark:

"Every bill of indictment drawn during this investigation is missing from my files."

Bills Finally Found. The recess was taken and shortly afterwards Andrews located the bills in a mass of other papers which resulted from the investigation.

Hunt lost a movement to force Andrews to file as a matter of court record all the bills of indictment, when Judge Thomas ruled he would not force the prosecution to show its hand to that extent.

Andrews said, however, that bills have been drawn against 15 or 17 others, indicating that every alleged big shot operator in the metropolitan district is facing prosecution if sufficient evidence is developed to warrant indictment by the grand jury.

If Hunt had succeeded, the name of every person against whom a bill has been drawn would have become a matter of public record.

Andrews did say that Charlie Stewart, a clerk in the office, drew all the bills for the grand jury.

Foreman on Stand. Morris Ewing, foreman of the grand jury, was placed on the stand to identify the bills of indictment on which Bentley and Tyler were quizzed, and Andrews followed to say that the bills before the court were the originals on which they were questioned.

Bentley followed to say that there was no indictment before the grand jury, and "I refused to answer the questions simply on the grounds that an answer would violate a privileged communication between a client and his attorney."

"Any answer I might have made would without a doubt tend to incriminate my client," he added.

Tyler never took the stand, nor did he make any statement.

Andrews cited a long list of decisions, which he contended ruled in the issue and which he said clearly set out that the questions

Legal 'Mercy Killings' Condemned by Vatican

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 5. (AP)—Legalization of euthanasia, painless "mercy killings," was condemned editorially tonight by the Vatican newspaper, L'Osservatore Romano.

The newspaper approved words of the noted Italian, Dr. Luigi Ferrarini, director of the medical clinic at the University of Bari, that "rigorous scientific investigation, coupled with juridical and social investigation, proves that the right must be denied to anyone, whether relatives or state, to crush with the intervention of science that which is dearest and most inalienable to human beings—life."

propounded were proper and should have been answered. Members of the grand jury attended the hearing and were interested spectators to the battle as it progressed.

They propose to resume their inquisition this morning and Andrews indicated that a new effort to link big shots will be given decided impetus by the court's action.

25 Witnesses Called. About 25 witnesses have been summoned to appear today, Ralph Owens, convicted bootlegger, was at the courthouse as a witness in a trial during the day, but was not called before the grand jury.

He brushed aside all intimations that he would make a voluntary statement to the grand jury when he said:

"I never paid off a cop in my life. I don't know anything about any payoffs. I'm no stool pigeon. There had been persistent reports that Owens could throw considerable light on the alleged payoffs if he could be induced to talk."

Hunt attacked the bills of indictment, asserting they were not proper documents on which attorneys could be sworn.

"I want it understood at the very outset that I am not defending the bug," Hunt said, "but a principal of the law which is even older than the constitution—the sacred relation between an attorney and his client."

Throw Out Dragnet. "The grand jury is attempting to throw out a dragnet and to show conspiracy. It seeks to make a man incriminate himself through his attorney by breaking down the confidential relation between an attorney and his client."

After Bentley came from the stand, Andrews contended to the court that the "respondent admits the relevancy of the question and it should have been answered."

"Failure to answer it was contempt," he added. "The only thing we asked was who hired him. That information he refused and if such an attitude persists, the ends of justice will be thwarted."

Asked of Hull.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 5. (AP)—Russell T. Fisher, of Boston, president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, tonight challenged Secretary of State Hull to ban Japanese textile imports here as an answer to Japanese action in refusing to buy more American cotton.

Mr. Fisher, arriving here to open the annual convention of the association here tomorrow, said the Japanese had been buying more than a million bales of American cotton, but were shipping into this country 90,000,000 yards of finished cloth.

He said that "this cloth might well have been made in New England to employ hundreds of New England workers."

GRANDMA DEFENDS
JOHN ROOSEVELT

President's Mother Displeased With Champagne Story.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (AP)—Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the President, returned from Europe tonight on the Ile de France mildly indignant over stories involving her grandson, John, in the champagne-squirting incident with the mayor of Cannes, France.

"Grandma doesn't like it at all," she said.

"Poor John. It was not his experience at all," she sighed. "They should not invent those terrible things about him. He is a very nice boy, and most of the time he was with me."

Told of the President's speech concerning the war-like aspect of the world, she said it was not broadcast aboard ship, and added: "It's a dreadful time, isn't it?"

The President's mother was met at the pier by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

F. D. R. SETS STAGE TO REVERSE POLICY

Proposal Viewed as a Return to Doctrines of Wilson.

By JAY G. HAYDEN.

(Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

ON BOARD PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S SPECIAL TRAIN, Oct. 5.—President Roosevelt set the stage for a complete reversal of American foreign policy—heretofore founded on "isolation" and statutory "neutrality"—when, in his speech at Chicago Tuesday, he called for a concerted world quarantine of aggressor nations.

And although he did not name them specifically, he left no doubt as to which nations he was aiming at. By his references to wars being carried on without formal declaration, ships sunk by submarines without notice, nations fomenting and taking sides in civil wars, and to the League of Nations' covenant, the Briand-Kellogg peace pact and the nine-power far eastern treaty, he plainly pointed to Japan, Italy and Germany as the principal international lawbreakers.

Advisers Emphatic. As though the President's words themselves were not enough, his advisers aboard the train did everything in their power to emphasize the importance of the address. Far from discouraging the assumption that the speech was a prelude to more positive action by the government in behalf of peace, they made it clear that this was exactly what the President intended to imply.

The speech also has a marked bearing on the special session of congress, which the President has indicated he intends soon to convene.

Secretary of State Hull has daily been finding the present neutrality act more unworkable. Japan particularly has been taking advantage of the fixed neutrality.

Simultaneously, there has been increasing demands from the other democratic nations of the world that the United States join actively in the effort to prevent the spread of existing wars.

When the President proposed an international "quarantine," his advisers conceded he was merely coining a new title for what has been known diplomatically as "sanctions."

Essentially the policy he now proposes is a return to the doctrine of Woodrow Wilson, founded on the belief that the United States cannot avoid involvement in foreign wars by purely negative means. It is an abandonment of the policy of "isolation," established by President Warren G. Harding and continued with only sporadic and feeble lapses toward internationalism for the last 17 years.

City Schools Move To End Abuse Of Sick Leave by Teacher Group

Report Compiled by Assistant Superintendent Hunter Reveals That Married Women Are More Regular in Attendance Than Unmarried Sisters.

Steps to end abuse of sick leave by Atlanta teachers were taken yesterday by members of the board of education as H. Reid Hunter, assistant superintendent of schools, revealed that, contrary to popular belief, married women teachers are more regular in attendance at their classes than their unmarried sisters.

While four members of the board of education voted to compile lists and records of teachers absent on sick leave, Hunter exhibited figures which showed married women teachers average only 4 1-2 days absence from work during the year but that single girls average five days' absence.

Bachelors Regular. On the other hand (reason unexplained) married men teachers average more than double the absence of single males. Where the married man is absent three days a year, the bachelor teacher is absent only one day.

Superintendent Willis A. Sutton hastened to point out that the figures are averages, and that many teachers are absent not at all while a very small minority are frequently unable to teach because of illness.

Nevertheless, Sutton said, a few teachers in the system have made a practice of "taking the full limit of sick leave (30 working days for veterans) every year."

"Abuse Believed Ended." "I believe the abuse has been ended by the study of the situation made by Mr. Hunter, and I think it will not occur again if names of absent teachers are compiled quarterly," he asserted.

The rules committee, composed of Ernest Brewer, chairman; Ed S. Cook, Mrs. Z. V. Peterson and D. F. McClatchey, voted to write in the rules that "no board member shall use his or her influence" in obtaining jobs in the school department for relatives of board members within the third degree.

The committee rejected Brewer's proposed rule to force board members holding office in the Parent-Teacher Association to resign either one or the other position.

Names of Judges Forged on Checks In Atlanta Area

Names of three Georgia supreme court justices, a court of appeals judge and a high official of the lower court have been forged to approximately 18 checks during the past two weeks.

No police reports have been made as yet, since the judges have not wished to prosecute, attaches at the capitol indicated.

The checks have been cashed by lawyers and Atlanta merchants. They were written on a typewriter and signed with fairly good imitations of the jurists' signatures, indicating a familiarity with their handwritings.

It was said five checks forged with the name of one supreme court justice were good enough imitations to get by the bank.

McCollough's body will be returned to Jacksonville, Ala., for burial. He came here in 1929 for his health and Saturday underwent an operation upon his ribs.

Protect Your Estate Against Excessive Tax Shrinkage

YOUR LIFE UNDERWRITER CAN HELP YOU

THIS diagram represents an estate of a certain size. Notice how much more of it is consumed today, by federal and state taxes, than was taken in 1926. Remember, too, that taxes may be even higher when you die.

Will your estate have the cash to pay the taxes, plus your debts and other estate administration costs? If not, the sale of part of your estate to raise the cash may, because it will be a forced sale, involve heavy sacrifice.

Ask your life underwriter how you can use life insurance to provide the cash, prevent sacrifice sales. He and an officer of our Trust Department can help you to make a plan that may save thousands of dollars for your family.

Maureen Orcutt and Clarie Tiernan Are Upset in First Round.

By KENNETH GREGORY.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 5.—(AP) All of the big guns of America's feminine golfing ranks, with one glaring failure and mild surprises here and there, fired victorious charges today in the first round of the 41st annual scramble for the nation's championship.

Removed to the sidelines in spectator roles after the 18-hole rapid eliminating were Miss Maureen Orcutt, of Haworth, N. J., runner-up a year ago to England's Pamela Barton, and Miss Clarie Tiernan, the youthful Irish champion.

While these two outstanding participants fired and fell back, such favored contenders as Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, medalist for two years hand-running; Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, six times winner of the crown; Marion Miley and Kathryn Hemphill, semifinalists in 1936, and Patty Berg, the Minneapolis red-head, advanced to the second round.

Mrs. George D. Brantley, of Jacksonville, Fla., who as Mary Rogers was southern champion in 1935, pulled the day's biggest surprise when she ousted Miss Orcutt, 1 up. Miss Tiernan, the New Jersey titleholder and Irish champion from Baltray, was beaten, 5 and 4, by Mrs. William E. Shepherd, of Los Angeles, Cal.

Although not flashing the steadiness and control displayed when she won the qualifying medal with a par 79, Mrs. Page, the Greensboro (N. C.) threat, conquered Marian Leachman, of Berkeley, Cal., 3 and 2.

Dorothy Kirby, 17-year-old Southern champion from Atlanta, Ga., defeated Mrs. Gaither Hatcher, of Memphis, 8 and 6. Miss Kirby, in the best exhibition of stroking thus far on the outgoing nine, fired a sub-par 38 to go six up at the turn.

Miss Kirby had birdies on the 400-yard first hole and the 135-yard fourth. Mrs. Hatcher shot a 47.

Miss Kirby won the 11th, and Mrs. Hatcher conceded the match without playing the 12th.

GOMEZ TO FACE HUBBELL TODAY

nant race to two straight years, battered the Giants once, and dominated the all-star proceedings. "It isn't altogether a 'hunch' that this is the Giants' year or that 1937 is an unlucky season for favorites. The one big reason behind the strong backing for the National league champions is their superlative left-handed pitching.

TO SHOOT LEFTIES. Terry's strategy points toward shooting southpaws. The Yankees forced four times in the first five games in a bid to achieve quick victory. It's the one method, the one antidote that appears most likely to nullify the Yankee power typified by such left-handed batters as Lou Gehrig, Bill Dickey, Red Rolfe and George Selkirk. Off this year's record the Yankees, while never any part of a push-over, are less effective against southpaws than ever before.

Outside of the Yankees' own portside ace, Gomez, there are not lefties in the American league to compare with Hubbell and Cliff Melton, the sensational rookie who won 20 games in his first year and is slated to pitch the second game of the big series. After a lull of right-handed "sinker ball" pitching by Hal Schumacher in the third game, the Giants likely will come right back with Hubbell and Melton for the fourth and fifth games.

This may mean too much strain for the Giants' portside, especially for Hubbell, who has needed more than ordinary rest between starts this season, but it's the plan of battle for the time being and, in Terry's opinion, worth the gamble for high stakes. Terry has another talented left-hander, Al Smith, for relief duty.

KERR'S SHAKEUP.

The shakeup that Andy Kerr made in Colgate following Saturday's 40-7 licking by Cornell was plenty big enough, but it may not be as hard on the veterans as it looked at first.

A Great Clutch Punt Wrecked by Fine Run

Haas, of Texas, Answered Pinky's Challenge, But Rohm Was Even More Resourceful.

By BILL MUNDAY.
There ain't no justice in this old world despite what Mr. Frank L. Stanton had to say about the roses being sweet, in the opinion of one Mr. Haas, stellar halfback of the Texas Longhorns, who saw a masterful piece of work Waterloosed as his team bowed to L. S. U. Saturday night. The score in that famous battle of the mud was 9 to 0.

And, on the other hand, Mr. Pinky Rohm, the Tigers' All-American backfield candidate, very likely feels that the old world is mighty rose to beat after all and there are no such things as thorns on every rose.

It was late in the second quarter. Two great machines had battled and swam through nearly 30 minutes of bruising warfare on a rain-drenched field with nary a score. And still the rain was pouring down.

L. S. U. held the ball in mid-field, fourth down. Mr. Pinky Rohm stepped into put formation, took dead aim, fired and the ball went zooming spectacularly out on Texas' 1-yard ribbon.

ANSWERS CHALLENGE. The situation, of course, was desperate. The ball was wet, muddy, slippery and heavy. There was every chance for a fumble. The fate of the Lone Star laddies rested on the brawny shoulders and big toe of Mr. Haas. Brilliantly he answered the challenge. As cool as a fireman playing checkers on a rainy day, he fell back to within a yard of his end zone and fired one back at Mr. Rohm.

Farther and farther the ball sped in the air. And now for more heroics. Rohm, not unlike Flash Covington and our own Nutty Campbell, gambled with that soaked oval. He decided to catch it on the dead run and backed up for a running start.

And, he tucked that ball in his bosom on his own 35 after it had traveled 74 yards through the ozone. He was near the sidelines on the left going south. Texas' right end was on top of him. Adroitly he faked to his left. With the stratagem went the end. And now out to the right scampered Mr. Rohm. Putting them up and taking them down like a Jack Eider despite the hazardous underfooting, Mr. Rohm flew. Side-stepping two would-be tacklers, straight-arming another, he reached the Longhorns' 35-yard stripe where his interference was waiting. Apparently he was gone to glory. But no. With two men leading him he was hit from behind on the 4-yard line. But not stopped!

The impact of the tackle threw him headlong into his two blockers. And dragging his holding-on adversary with him he literally dived over his own compatriots for the only touchdown of the game.

He had set the stage for his sensational jaunt with his toe. But we somehow couldn't resist a tear when we contemplated the feelings which evidently were Mr. Haas' when he had emerged from the fray. The next thing was a broil of that kicking out from the "coffin corner" so valiantly. Only to see a "good job" gone awry.

Rohm, of course, is one of the outstanding backs in the nation. And Young Bussey, his substitute, is not far behind him. Saturday night, for instance, with less than a minute to go he reeled off a flashy 75 run, dashing to the 10-yard line where he slipped in the mud and was plastered from behind. But Bussey is a sophomore. He will have plenty of time. In the interim, however, it would be asking too much to expect him to beat out the experienced triple-threaters. In fact any back anywhere would be mighty hard pressed if he sought Mr. Rohm's starting job.

Yanks Picked To Win Series in Six Games

Lardner Says 1937 Champs Are Above Average on Defense; Likes Gomez in Opener.

By JOHN LARDNER.
(Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—A little group of our better deputy sheriffs called on me the other day, and when they asked "Where were you on the night of August 6, and where did you hide the gun?" I had my answer ready:

First game—Yankees to win, Gomez over Hubbell.

Second game—Yankees again, Ruffing over Melton.

Third game—Giants this time, Schumacher over Pearson.

Fourth game—Giants tie it up, Hubbell winning.

Fifth game—Yankees come back, Ruffing over Melton.

Sixth game—Yankees clinch it, beating Schumacher.

In other words, the Yankees will win the World Series in six games.

This promise is easily as good as my bond, which is now in the hands of the district attorney.

The fellow who picks the World Series has a great responsibility, and a world of gail, in addition to which, the strain on his nerves is terrific. I will never forget (at least, it doesn't seem to my friends that I will ever forget) the time I picked the result of a match between a tiger and a native, in Punjab, India, back in '88, the year of the epidemic.

We were hunting ivory for his majesty, Lord Lovaduck and I. Our guide, Alf Poon, got a little ahead of the party. As I remember, he was three drinks ahead.

Anyway, when this tiger came into our tent, trying to scratch up the price of a cup of coffee, Alf Poon was the last guy under the bed.

In Punjab, they call a bed a soob-singh. That is nothing to what old Lovaduck called me when he discovered there was room for only one of us beneath it.

However, I assured my companion that he had very little to worry about, since the great jungle beast had already been acquainted with me. Alf Poon began with the toes and working up.

Always the sportsman, I barked: "Two guineas on the tiger." Lord Lovaduck did not reply. It was just as well he didn't, for my knowledge of form, weight, endurance, training and past performance had not led me astray. Class will tell, and our visitor had class.

Besides, it has always been my experience that, when everything else is equal, the good big fellow will beat the good little fellow.

That goes for the World Series of 1937. Here you have a couple of sound, fighting ball clubs, one bigger than the other. The Yankees are faster and more powerful.

They have just about as good a pitching staff—for a short series—as the Giants. Gomez, Ruffing, and Pearson are a match for Hubbell, Melton and Schumacher.

But the Giants have no match for DiMaggio, Gehrig, Dickey, Selkirk and Lazzeri, in the matter of offensive strength.

When a club gets a name for power, as the Yankees have, people begin to think of it, after a time, as slow, heavy-footed, and awkward. You hear a lot about Yankee power against Giant tightness, the inference being that the Yanks have no defensive tightness themselves.

That's wrong. McCarthy's team is well above average defensively. Compare his outfield, with the Giants'. DiMaggio is easily the best defensive outfielder in either league. In left field you must give Joe Moore an edge over Myril Hoag and Tommy Henrich, but in right field it's a tossup between Rippe and Selkirk.

For a while the Georgia Techs were stopping everything, the "Kentucky" team could offer yesterday afternoon in a defensive scrimmage.

But it was only a while. Then the "Kentucky" team went wild.

They scored four touchdowns in short order. Two were by air and two were by land.

The Tech coaches are worried indeed and they have ordered a long scrimmage for today.

EAGER FOR WIN. Tech is eager to win this one for a number of reasons. In the first place they would like to prove their 34-to-0 victory of last year was not an accident. And secondly that they can win away from home. Elsewhere it is pointed out that since January 1, 1929, Tech has won but three games away from home. They want to start off with Kentucky.

There will be another scrimmage tomorrow. The team leaves immediately after practice Thursday, boarding a train which quits the Terminal station at 6:08 for Lexington where on Friday Kentucky is the foe.

"B" TEAM PLAYS. Members of the "B" team have an extra inducement. The "B" team plays a game in Atlanta Friday with the Armstrong Junior College as opponents. Coaches Mack Tharpe and Bobby Dodd will remain here for that game and will select 10 players from the "B" squad to leave that night for Kentucky and a chance in the game.

Hence, while the "B" team may not resemble Kentucky so much in the execution of plays they are, nevertheless, very willing and eager about it.

WINS RECOGNITION. ALGIERS, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Maurice Holtzer, featherweight champion of France and Europe, tonight won International Boxing Union recognition as world champion by taking a 10-round decision over Phil Dolheim, of Belgium, before a packed hall.

The pair had been designated by B. U. to fight for the vacant title.

CATHOLIC CLUB HONORS TEAM

The softball team, representing the Church of the Immaculate Conception in the Catholic softball league of Atlanta, was honored last night with a dinner in the clubroom at the church.

Gus Epler, who was manager of the Immaculate Conception church team, was presented with a gift by members of the team. All joined in a tribute to him. Players also received emblems, miniature softballs of gold.

Father William Maguire, who organized and fostered the league, complimented the players of the entire league and asked them to continue in other inter-church social and athletic activities during the winter. He presented to the championship team a handsome trophy.

THE SPEAKERS. Dr. Stephen Gernazian served as toastmaster and did an admirable job. He was a member of the winning team.

Ralph McGill, sports editor of The Constitution, spoke on sportsmanship and said that the sportsmanship of amateur groups such as that of the Catholic league produced the finest type of sportsmanship and fellowship.

The most excellent speaker was, including the marvelous apple pie, all prepared and served by feminine members of the club. The ladies who prepared the dinner were Mrs. G. J. Epler, Mrs. Robert Johann and Mrs. Elizabeth Esmond. Young ladies serving the dinner were Leona Mansfield, Mary Grace Hazz, Elnora, Eloise Clark, Jane Shropshire, Dorothy Baugh and Eloise Walker.

THE PROGRAM. An entertaining program was supplied by Arthur Falkenburg and Forrest Taylor. It was enthusiastically received.

Members of the winning club were Alton Baumgartner, Carl Baumgartner, Frank Baumgartner, Fritz Baumgartner, Tommy Clark, Willie Edwards, Gus Epler, Eddie Gasperlin, Stephen Gernazian, Fred Hazz, Gregory Maher, Jimmy McGlone, Joel Newsome, Roscoe Walker and Bill Woodward. Guests were Tom Clark and Joe Keiley, of Sacred Heart; Tom Kehole and Leo Volker, of St. Anthony, and Louis Van Houten, of the All-Stars.

Members of the clergy present were Father James Conlin, Father Joseph Smith, Father William Maguire, Father Riley, Father Weiss and Father Bechtel.

WILDCAT TEAM ROUTS JACKETS

Shorty Drexler, Indianapolis speed star who will enter his new Duesenberg racer in the championship auto races to be held in conjunction with the Southeastern Fair and Atlanta Centennial. GEORGIA VARSITY SHOWS UP BADLY

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 5.—The casual observer might have easily concluded that supply room officials had issued black jerseys to the wrong team by the way the offensive Red Devils were going through a mixed Georgia varsity lineup in a scrimmage this afternoon.

An actual count showed the B team tallied three markers against the reserves.

The Red and Black first-stringers rested somewhat today. Tomorrow they will go at it both offensively and defensively.

NEEDS SPARK. Play against the Gamecocks Saturday showed that considerable work needs to be done. The team needs more spark and punch when near the opponent's goal. In the two games so far they have not used the passing attack to any great extent.

Some encouragement was gained by the passwork today in drills. An extensive aerial session was ordered and tossers and receivers were connecting more frequently than in recent weeks. How they will do under fire, of course, is dubious.

Vassa Cate, who by his snaking running and blinding speed has proved the most effective ground-gainer thus far, went up early due to a Charley horse on the calf of the leg. This was one of the effects of the second contest.

WEDDING STARS. John Wedemeyer, by his jaunts into the White Shirts' rear guard and by his passing, starred for the Red Devils today. Ben Ehrlich, right halfback from Atlanta, also looked well. One of the Red Devils' goals came after a series of laterals with Ducky Al Moss on the end of the series.

Jimmy Fordham missed the drill and Red Holland was moved back to fullback for service during the afternoon.

Baugh and Tinsley Stars in Pro Ball

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Sammy Baugh, the forward passing wizard of the Washington Redskins, is setting the early aerial pace in the National Football league race.

In three games so far, the former Texas Christian University star, has completed 32 of 57 passes for a total gain of 428 yards and an average of 56 per cent.

Gaynell Tinsley, former Louisiana State end, now with the Chicago Cardinals, is top scorer with 24 points.

Tweet Walsh, owned by Little Rock, but playing with Rocky Mount in 1937, went to the Boston Bees. Tonight's meeting, conducted to the point and in a stern Landis manner, drew famous baseball leaders from nearly all minor and major clubs. Prominent in the gathering was Clark Griffith, Joe Cronin, Bill Terry, Earl Mack, Pie Traynor, Branch Rickey, Curly Ogden, of Baltimore; Joe Engel, Bert Niehoff, Colonel Rupert, of the Yankees, the Allens, from Knoxville, and the Cracker president.

Jones, Roche Headline Mat Card at Theater

John Paul Jones and Dorve Roche will wrestle tonight in the feature bout of Frank Speer's first indoor show of the season at the Atlanta theater.

Away from Atlanta for three years, Jones will be recalled by fans as the man with the best hook scissors in the business. Reports say that he has lost none of his skill.

Roche, who seems to always be in a hurry once inside the ropes, dishing out fast and smashing action, is a strong favorite here. It should be a fast and blistering match.

Big Boy Brown, of Chattanooga, will referee the matches.

Tarzan Ben Jordan opposes Tiny Ruff in the semi-final. Ruff is challenging Jordan's claim of being Atlanta's No. 1 grappler, but Ben looked extremely good in taking Jimmy Morris last week.

The usual one-fall opener will begin at 8:30 o'clock.

74 INDICTMENTS HIT AT DOPE RING; NEW RAIDS STAGED

Charges Are Returned by
Grand Jury as New Raids
Begin in South.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Importation and distribution of from $5,000,000 to $25,000,000 worth of narcotics was laid today to 74 persons, including 12 women, indicted on charges of conspiracy to violate the federal laws.

The indictment was returned and sealed September 29, but it was not opened until today to enable agents of the Narcotic Bureau under the general direction of Major Garland Williams to make wholesale arrests here last night coincident with raids in Houston, Galveston, New Orleans and elsewhere.

Judge Samuel Mandelbaum, who ordered the indictment opened, praised United States District Attorney Lamar Hardy, Major Williams and their aides for their efforts "to crush the activities of these potential murderers, who spare no one, not even children, when they make victims."

FOUR MORE ARRESTS MADE IN NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Four additional persons were arrested here today in the government's drive on an alleged international narcotic ring.

A 15-year-old girl, listed as Antoinette Lima, was among those charged. Others arrested today were Mrs. A. Scontrino, grocery store operator; Jerry Feraci, alias Jerry Fradella, 32, and Nicholas Gentile, the latter said by officers to have been the "director" of the New Orleans group.

FOURTEEN MORE SEIZED IN GALVESTON RAIDS

GALVESTON, Texas, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Fourteen of 16 men and women seized today in a federal stab at the vast narcotic trade, were granted $10,000 bonds to-night after arraignment before a United States commissioner.

Two women among the 16 Texans were released without bond.

Among the first taken by the federal officers were Sam Keco, wealthy Galveston night club operator, and Vincent Vallone, Houston club operator. Maceo issued a statement disclaiming any connection with any of the defendants.

Patrolman J. D. Stribling was "slightly improved" last night at the Georgia Baptist hospital, but the "no visitors" sign still hung on the door.

The police officer has been confined to the hospital for several weeks recovering from an operation. A blood transfusion was given by his nephew, L. D. Stribling. Only members of the immediate family have been allowed to visit Stribling, with the sole exception of 8-year-old Bernard Blackwell, close companion of the ill officer, who paid him a visit Monday.

Anthropometric Screen Checks Defects of Atlanta College Girls

A black line designates the vertebrae while small cross marks are placed to determine scapula level. The screen which has spaces of one inch clearly show up posture defects. Miss Dorothy Fugitt, physical director at the school, makes the tests and prescribes corrective exercises. Miss Haynes is president of the athletic association.

Miss Vida Barnwell, 103 Hood circle, president of the senior class at North Avenue Presbyterian school, who was chosen last year as "Miss Health." She stands before the anthropometric screen to get "lined up" for this year's contest. She is figuratively trying to touch her head to the ceiling as her instructor, Miss Fugitt, advised.

Facing front, Miss Dorothy Campbell, 1543 Peachtree road, seems to measure up when she steps before the anthropometric screen at North Avenue Presbyterian school to test her posture. A senior this year Miss Campbell is also secretary of the athletic association. She has learned to walk like she has a million, as her athletic instructor advised, and she finds that when she does, she feels much the same way. The instruction is an aid to health as well as beauty.

tion of Japanese bombing attacks, expresses "profound horror."

LEAGUE MAPS PROCEDURE FOR CONVOKING TREATY

GENEVA, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The League of Nations moved today to convene a conference of signatories of the nine-power pact, including the United States, to deal with Japanese "invasion" of China.

In short order, the League's advisory committee adopted recommendations of the Sino-Japanese subcommittee which condemned Japan and proposed League action in the conflict.

The subcommittee, after formally branding Japan guilty of violating the nine-power treaty, the Boxer protocol and the Briand-Kellogg pact, recommended the nine powers meet as soon as possible.

It was also recommended by the subcommittee that the League assembly be kept in readiness for a special session to discuss the far-eastern situation.

(Signatories of the nine-power treaty which guarantees the territorial integrity of China, are China, Japan, the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Portugal.)

The Boxer protocol provides for the maintenance of foreign troops in limited numbers in China for the protection of nationals, and the Briand-Kellogg pact outlaws war as an instrument of national policy.)

In its 4,000-word survey of the far-eastern conflict, the subcommittee charged Japan invaded China with powerful armies, took naval measures close to the Chinese coast and against Chinese shipping and bombed wide areas from the air.

The first unofficial Japanese reaction here to the proposal of the nine-power conference was that it is too early in the military operations to think of such talks.

In addition to its recommendations, the subcommittee voted for League members to be asked to consider what aid they could give China in view of Japan's invasion. The Chinese delegation in a statement said aid should take the form of supplies and financial assistance.

CHINESE OVERWHELMED DURING JAPANESE RAIDERS

SHANGHAI, Oct. 6.—(Wednesday)—(AP)—A daring Japanese raiding party was overwhelmed by Chinese defenders early today when it tried to break a nine-day deadlock by penetrating the shattered North Station area.

Behind a screen of artillery and aerial fire, the Japanese raiders hurled themselves against the Chinese entrenchments just north of the International Settlement on the edge of embattled Shanghai.

A blistering spray of machine gun and rifle bullets met the Japanese soldiers, but did not halt them. The survivors of that hail of death came to grips with the Chinese in their hand-bagged positions.

Foreign troops saw the bayonet-wielding Chinese overpower the

Nude Photography Physical Tests Not Used in Atlanta Girl Schools

'We Like Our Methods in Examinations for Defects,' Say Directors; And Students Have Posture,
Too, Declare Colleges' Experts.

By MAXINE LAND.

Rising above the clouds of disapproval in Detroit recently among members of the Detroit Board of Education in regard to nude photography as a means of correcting physical defects of co-eds at Wayne University, Atlanta's college girls, co-eds and physical directors at the colleges voice the opinion that Atlanta's methods are just as effective—if, more modest.

Miss Dorothy Fugitt, physical director at North Avenue Presbyterian school, "doesn't miss a trick" when it comes to checking up on sway backs and flat feet, and if one shoulder is a bit higher than the other—watch out for Miss Fugitt.

When girls enter the school they are given a complete physical examination. They are then placed in front of an anthropometric screen—their vertebrae are checked with a black pencil right down the spinal column, then each shoulder is checked with a black cross mark to determine scapula level.

The little screen simply tells the story from start to finish. Questioned as to whether the girls were given the old test of carrying the book on their heads Miss Fugitt replied:

"No. I try to teach the girls to rely entirely upon themselves. But I do tell them constantly to walk as if they were trying to touch their heads to the ceiling and to walk like they were worth a million for the ideal posture."

warriors of Japan by sheer numbers.

50 Japanese Captured.
More than 50 Japanese were captured as the remnants of the attacking party were driven back. The fighting was accompanied by a thunderous crescendo of shells. Japanese warships, anchored in the Whangpoo river, and bombing squadrons savagely blasted the entire Chapei sector beyond the range of the raiders.

Japanese warplanes imperiled the United States gunboat Guam, anchored in the Yangtze river at Wuhu, city 55 miles southeast of Nanking. The planes roared over the ship and bombed a nearby Chinese air base.

Japanese air bombs bursting 40 yards away across the narrow Soochow creek drove United States marines temporarily from their positions on the northern edge of the International Settlement.

Brigadier General John C. Beaumont ordered the marines out of the line of fire when shrapnel from 15 Japanese bombs, dropped on one of China's largest flour mills, sprayed their outposts. They returned to the barricades two hours later.

Marines Withdrawn.
General Beaumont said the marines were withdrawn because the Japanese bombardment did not imperil the International Settlement and it would endanger American lives unnecessarily to hold the positions.

The Japanese, asserting they have won unchallenged supremacy in the air, struck from the skies here at Nanking and at Taiyuan, capital of Shansi province in the north.

Chinese anti-aircraft fire and pursuit planes chased a Japanese squadron from Nanking, China's capital, after the fleet of six planes had dropped a dozen bombs. A Chinese airbase was said to have been demolished and

"After examining the girls for their defects, I prescribe special corrective exercises. Generally by the end of the year the girl is fast overcoming whatever little defect she had."

Plenty of Exercise.

"With plenty of exercise such as badminton, volley ball, tennis and other sports, the girls usually just gradually assume the correct posture, of course with the correct instruction."

Washington Seminary girls stand against the wall for the sway-back test. "That tells the story right there," said Mary Ligon, athletic director at the school. She added: "I give them the powder test for flat feet. They stand in white powder, barefooted, of course, then make a print of their feet. The girls generally like this whether they have flat feet or not." Stripped for their physical examinations, no pictures are made. Then the girls wear the gym suits for their corrective exercises.

Reducing Machine Used.

For the hippy ones Miss Ligon gives them a turn in the reducing machine. Kicking the cage ball to stretch the spine is one of the finer exercises for posture.

Agnes Scott girls are carefully instructed in correct posture by Miss Llewellyn Wilburn who stresses good posture as one of the main objectives in the yearly health program for girls.

Co-eds at Oglethorpe University co-eds take their posture training in a little more two-fisted manner. The train under the supervision of Coach Patrick—but, the girls have posture!

Five planes destroyed at Taiyuanfu. Fear of new air attacks on Canton, South China port, spread after reports that Japanese occupied three islands, building an airbase on the largest, off the Kwantung province coast near the mouth of the Canton river.

Japanese admitted they were blocked in their drive for the Chapei native district and the demoralized North station bordering on Shanghai's International Settlement.

Only 10 yards separated the enemies at many points on the Chinese line that radiated through narrow alleys, barbed with sandbagged baby forts and barbed wire from the Tumble Inn cave, once a notorious underworld rendezvous.

CANTERBURY ATTACKS JAPANESE TACTICS

LONDON, Oct. 5.—(AP)—A mass meeting in Albert hall tonight adopted a resolution expressing "horror and condemnation" of Japanese air raids on Chinese cities. The resolution also urged the government to take the lead in organizing world-wide economic pressure against Japan.

The thousands assembled in the hall acted after they heard the Archbishop of Canterbury reiterate the British government's formal declaration of "profound horror" over Japan's bombing attacks.

Stating his position imposed "restraints" on his words he told his listeners:

"We are entitled to use the words of Viscount Cranborne, foreign undersecretary, who expressed the government's 'profound horror' in a League of Nations address."

WARNING SOUNDED IN LABOR STRIFE

ican Federation of Labor convention and his hope that your sessions will be productive of constructive plans for the improvement of conditions and for co-operation to this end of workers, management and the public."

The message, addressed to AFL President William Green, said in part:

"Continued co-operation among workers and management will serve to consolidate these substantial gains and enable us to go on to greater prosperity and to better standards of living."

Madden told the convention that labor's civil war had added to the volume of the board's work and enormously to the difficulty of that work because solutions of certain problems that would be easy to reach had been complicated by the cult when the minds of the contestants were "confused with hot emotions."

"The law forbids him to give effect to that preference by coercing his employees to join the preferred union or not to join the other union."

"And if this (Wagner) law shall ever be amended so that in words or in effect it shall say that employers shall be entitled to be represented by a union of the employees choosing, then all the rest of the law should be repealed, for America will have become again the happy hunting ground for the company union."

"The employers who are now accepting one or the other of the great national organizations as the lesser of two evils will fly immediately to the love, the feeble company union."

HUGH JOHNSON WARNS AGAINST LABOR MEASURE

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Two old-time campaigners against low wages and long hours who have traveled many a long road together stood on a national sounding board today and parted company on the way these things should be attacked.

At the New York Herald Tribune session devoted to discussions of war, as well as to those of economics—Senator Robert F. Wagner, Democrat, New York, sat by with a thin and stony smile as General Hugh S. Johnson denounced the law which would regulate the pending labor standards bill.

"It (the bill) may get by," Johnson cried out with a grimace as he glared down his nose at his audience over his horn-rimmed glasses.

"If it does, we are a lot further down the lane that leads to one-man government and the end of our traditional system of constitutional democracy than was ever imagined by the most sensational Doubting Thomas, stay-at-home, calamity howler, economic royalist, modern Lord Macaulay or Tory prince of privilege in the whole Roosevelt category of vituperative epithet emasculated for the radio and the mails."

A burst of applause rang out as he finished, and Wagner, his face flushed, turned to his side and looked straight ahead. Senator Wagner had followed Representative Mary Norton, Democrat, New Jersey, house leader for the pending bill, to the rostrum and while he did not mention the measure by specific designation, he told the forum:

"The principle we seek to translate into wage and hour legislation is that the great majority of American employers who have the welfare of America at heart shall have a floor of minimum wages and a ceiling of maximum hours."

PRESIDENT CITES NEED FOR KNOWING COUNTRY
ABOARD ROOSEVELT TRAIN
EN ROUTE TO HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, enthused by two weeks of travel, offered an addition to what Horace Greeley said when he advised, "Go west, young man."

Speaking from his railroad car at Cleveland, over the New York Herald-Tribune forum on current events, he declared:

"I would amend this by suggesting that many of you old and young, should go not only to the west of Horace Greeley, but all the way to the coast—should go south and north and east."

"And in their travels, may I repeat a suggestion which I once gave a young man in New York who thought he knew it all. I said:

"Take a second-hand car, put on a flannel shirt, drive it out to the coast by the northern route and come back by the southern route. Don't stop anywhere you have to pay more than $2 for your room and bath. Don't talk to your banking friends or your Chamber of Commerce friends, but specialize on the gasoline station man, the small restaurant keeper and your fellow automobile travelers. In that way alone can one round out the picture—get a complete conception of any national problem, he said."

ORGANIZER FOR UAW BEATEN IN MEMPHIS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Norman Smith, organizer for the United Automobile Workers of America, was severely beaten to-night for the second time in two weeks and four women organizers for the Committee for Industrial Organization charged they were told to "get out of town."

Clifford Davis, police commissioner, said every man on the police force would be utilized in a thorough investigation, adding that "violence such as this will not be tolerated."

CIO CHOICE SECOND IN DETROIT VOTING

DETROIT, Oct. 6.—(Wednesday)—(AP)—The rival candidates of the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization were in a close contest, returns early today showed, for the second of two nominations for the Detroit mayoralty.

Richard W. Reading, city clerk and regarded as a "conservative" in yesterday's non-partisan primary election, continued to lead his four opponents, but the AFL-endorsed candidate slipped to third place as the CIO's choice pulled into second.

The two receiving the highest number of votes will oppose each other in the non-partisan election for city offices November 2.

Patrick H. O'Brien, former Michigan Democratic attorney-general, endorsed by the CIO, overtook John W. Smith, city council president who had held second place during the earlier returns. Smith had the support of the AFL. The official count of ballots from 2,000 of the 918 precincts gave the three leaders:

Reading, 23,635; O'Brien, 15,835; Smith, 13,973.

Pneumonia Rides On Wings of Smoke

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP)—High winds blow pneumonia out of cities on wings of smoke in the winter time. Calm days, in smoky cities, are likely to be followed about 15 days later by a rise in pneumonia.

These and other clues tracing some of the pneumonia of winter-time to city smoke were reported to the American Public Health Association here today by Dr. Samuel R. Haythorn and H. B. Meller of Pittsburgh.

Another report by a Pittsburgher, Lucy Schurer, M. D., indicated that soft coal, rather than anthracite and coke is the guilty party.

Dr. Haythorn said that the lungs of 3,000 persons at post-mortem showed the pneumonia percentage definitely higher when there was heavy pigmentation with dust and other air pollutants.

OIL TRIAL DEFENSE HINGES ON NRA

need information concerning the possible NRA defense to help him determine what testimony is material to the case.

Donovan answered one angle of the possible defense when he said: "Our contention is we are not operating buying pools."

Hammond Chaffetz, chief of the prosecution staff, who demanded Donovan remain silent regarding his claim of government approval of oil company activities unless they were proved in court, spent most of the afternoon describing buying programs the government charged were in violation of the anti-trust act.

The prosecutor said companies participated in buying pools in east Texas and midcontinental oil fields for the purpose of rigging a so-called spot market there.

"Master Mind" Charged.

"Sales on the spot market were almost exclusively by small independent refiners to independent jobbers prior to the alleged conspiracy," Chaffetz said. Then he told the jury, large companies carried out the plan the government attributes to the "master mind" of Charles E. Arnott, of New York, vice president of Socomey-Vacuum.

The companies bought up the independent refiners' output at a high price, Chaffetz asserted, after signing jobbers to contracts based on the spot market price. The companies "adopted" the spot market, he said, and arbitrarily fixed its prices through their buying program, thus raising prices to jobbers and ultimately to consumers.

Chaffetz said the companies "made the conspiracy perfect" by getting trade journals to publish their arbitrary prices as the "going spot market price."

Mr. and Mrs. Kiser To Celebrate Wedding Anniversary in New York

By Sally Forth.

CELBRATING 40 years of marital happiness, Mr. and Mrs. William Howell Kiser will leave today for New York where they will spend the next two weeks seeing friends and revisiting places that stand out vividly among the memories of their honeymoon when they sailed for Europe from that port.

One of the first flashlight pictures of a wedding scene ever published in The Constitution depicted the former Miss Lucy Cook Peel and Mr. Kiser taking their marriage vows before an altar on the evening of October 6, 1897. The ceremony took place at the Peachtree street home of the late Mr. and Mrs. William L. Peel, parents of the bride. The ceremony was performed in the music room by Rev. Mr. Ryburn, great-uncle of the bride, and was witnessed by the elite of Atlanta.

The bride wore white Duchess satin made with a three-yard train, and clusters of tiny white feathers relieved the severity of the train. The corsage was embroidered in sprays of pearls and rhinestones, and a scarf of point applique lace was draped about her shoulders. She wore a diamond star, the gift of her parents, and the point applique lace veil was adorned with pearl pins and confined to the bride's hair with a superb diadem of pearls and diamonds, the gift of the groom. The old-fashioned, oblong earrings worn by the bride, were those of her great-grandmother of seven generations past. She carried a bouquet of valley lilacs and above the white satin altar hung an ancestor's portrait framed with roses.

The bride and groom knelt upon two white satin pillows embroidered with their initials in gold and silver and the altar was flanked with two white columns. Mr. and Mrs. Kiser departed for New York after the brilliant reception and after their European honeymoon, they returned to Atlanta to live in the palatial mansion of the groom, which was built on the northeast corner of Peachtree street and Forrest avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Kiser are among the influential and prominent citizens and have contributed much to the cultural and social life of the city. They are leaders in the activities that tend toward the interest and development of Atlanta and are parents of a trio of splendid sons, including Dr. William H. Kiser, Marlon Kiser and Lawson Kiser.

WHO is the girl who attended the dance last Saturday evening at East Lake Country Club wearing her just-acquired engagement ring? Another clue if you were there—she wore red fingernail polish to make her hand conspicuous and make the ring more noticeable. Then, too, there's the man in town who is so sure of an acceptance when he proposes in about two weeks that he has already purchased that engagement symbol. Have you ever heard of such confidence? Good luck, old man!

WHEN Mrs. Francis Dwyer and Mrs. Joseph Read give a party for their children on October 14, the affair will be more than just a fourth birthday anniversary for Sally Read and Craig Dwyer.

The friendship of the two children has been inherited. Their grandparents, Mrs. Read and the late Ben Read, and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Craighead were devoted friends for years. Their parents, Joe and Mary Warren Read and Francis and Frances Craighead Dwyer have also been friends for years. When the two babies were born their mothers had adjoining rooms at Emory University hospital, and they have been playmates ever since. And most remarkable of all, the children look alike, both have blue eyes and straight blond hair, and at the party Thursday they will wear sister and brother suits.

Another coincidence is that the Craigheads and the Reads have lived a block apart in Druid Hills until the formers' home was destroyed by fire. The Craigheads and the Dwyers now live just two doors from James Warren, the maternal grandfather of little Sally Read. The party will be held at the Capital City Club and will assemble 50 little friends of the honor guests.

Chi Omega Rushees To Be Feted Friday.

Rushees of the Sigma Gamma chapter of the Chi Omega sorority will be honored at tea Friday at the Capital City Country Club, at which the Atlanta alumnae will entertain.

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK CITY, Monday—I drove my own car from the country this morning at 6 a. m., and found little traffic on the road at that hour. I arrived at my New York city apartment in plenty of time to change and be at the Herald Tribune Forum at 9:30.

Mrs. Reid opened the forum in her usual charming manner. She was followed by the mayor, who greeted the delegates and gave them a speech with plenty of food for thought in it. In any case, a forum which has as its subject "The Second Discovery of America," and at its first session takes up "A Generation Finding Itself," and which actually lets young people talk on their own problems, is going to be an interesting forum. I particularly enjoyed Dr. Stringfellow Barr's talk on education.

My day yesterday was spent very largely in trying to go through the accumulated mail in Hyde Park and that led me to the perusal of one or two letters which have gone unnoticed for some time. One of these came to me from St. Petersburg, Fla., from Mrs. Edna Garland Hall who sent me her little book, "My Body," with it.

Unlike many authors who come my way, she did not ask for an endorsement of her work in her own interest, but suggested instead, that if I were interested, perhaps I would think the book worthy of being presented to the Parent-Teachers Association. I do not feel I can judge books for anyone but myself and so, long ago, I gave up doing anything more than telling people in general when I read something which I think worthy of mention. I like this little book and I think I would like the woman who wrote it if it happened to sit down together over a cup of tea by the fire in my living room.

As long as we are talking about reading matter for young people, I should like to mention that I enjoyed the magazine "Junior Scholastic," which was sent to me. This is now being published for the elementary grades in exactly the same way that "Scholastic" has been published for many years for the older grades.

I was interested in this publication because it touches on subjects which strike the imagination of all young people today. The discoveries and inventions that have come to us in the past few years are so stupendous I think it well for us to review what has gone before and then to realize what extraordinary things we have had to feed our imagination in the last 50 years.

A Corrective Cleansing Cream Which Will Help Speed Your Departing Tan on Its Way

I've found a new youth line of exquisite, yet inexpensive cosmetic preparations designed to help the young as well as the older woman wear her years lightly.

I particularly want you to know about the corrective cleansing cream, which, by softening the outer layer of skin scales, will hasten their normal shedding and leave your natural complexion revealed to the advantage of your new fall ensemble.

This cream is light, transparent and a delicate pink in color. The slight odor is very pleasing. There is a very big word—but one very popular now, applied to the cream. It is said to be non-allergic, which, I find upon intensive research, means that it contains no skin irritants of any kind. Well, you would guess that after your first application. For it's that kind of cream—soft, soothing and enjoyable to use.

It may be used as often as required, but of course a cleansing cream should be used at least twice a day, regardless of the number of actual soap and water "washings." It liquefies immediately upon touching the skin and penetrates deeply into the pores, bringing out the dust and dirt granules that accumulate there during the day's activities. The tissue with which you remove the cream is ample evidence of this fact. And the skin is left ever so soft with no suggestion of oiliness. By its deep-pore cleansing, this cream discourages the formation of blackheads and other blemishes, and leaves the complexion clear and bright.

I don't ordinarily advise a liquefying cream for a dry skin, and wouldn't in this instance, except with the admonition that a heavier massage cream be used also, but this is such a grand cleansing agent, and so easy to use, that I'm sure that you, regardless of the texture of your skin, will be pleased with the cleansing job it will do for you.

For just a few days, the regular-sized jar has been reduced to one-third of the usual price. So get yours today, and you'll undoubtedly be so pleased that you will want another.

For the name of this cream and the stores at which it may be purchased, phone me at my office in The Constitution building. If you do not live in the city, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

RATHER BORED.

damask and the draperies were in an old dull green horizontal striped cotton over deep ivory ninn. A cornice in red with an ivory Greek key design and a screen in old ivory and gold finished this small room with distinction.

Bamboo—Another very small dining room was given distinction by the use of bamboo furniture (bought at an end-of-summer sale of nice summer furniture). Really smart lines with lattice back chairs and a trim table. The walls of the room were paneled three quarters of the way up with bamboo laid horizontally. Above the bamboo the walls were painted in a natural bamboo color and the ceiling was in white color. A brown linoleum floor and chairs in white tone were complemented by raw silk curtains in a brown and cream design.

Unpretentious—Maple furniture of very unusual design was set against a wavy ribbon checked wall papered as mellowed in coloring and furnished with odds and ends. Or else it has a sleek and shining set of furniture that looks rather bored with itself amid dull surroundings.

So we set out to explore around and find some dining rooms that did have personality. And we found several that pleased even our hypercritical mood.

French Provincial—Walnut and beech furniture, off-white walls, a floral hooked rug, draperies of a scenic toile de Jouy style, material in tones of mulberry on white and hung from a shaped wood cornice. A built-in alcove of walnut stained wood had a niche in the center paneled in a mulberry and white striped paper. This niche was just big enough to hold the small buffet, and on either side of it the alcove had built-in cupboards lined with the same toile de Jouy scenic fabric which made a pleasing background for the pottery plates standing there decoratively. Chair seats were in a heavy cotton damask striped in mulberry and green. The china cabinet held a collection of amethyst glass and amethyst plates which were used on white linen mats to set a beaming table.

Inside Covers of Old Books. Marbleized Wall Paper—A very small dining room was, this furnished in simple mahogany furniture with shield shaped upholstered back chairs. The walls were paneled in a red marbleized wall paper like the inside covers of old books, and the floor was in-laid linoleum in plain old green with cream-striped borders, repeating flecks of the color in the wall paper. The chairs were covered in an ivory horizontal striped

Your Figure, Madam

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

MOVIE STARS SET EXAMPLES OF PERFECT MEASUREMENTS.

A curve is the loveliest distance between two joints in the streamlined figure. There is a difference in curves, however, and all beautiful figures are not streamlined according to the same scale, as you can see from a comparison of Mae West with other famous figures.

In movieland, where gorgeous figures are the rule, there is an exceptionally wide range of lovely measurements. Take the willowy figure of the beautiful and blonde Virginia Bruce, for example. Miss Bruce is five feet six and one-half inches tall, and weighs 128 pounds—all in the right places. She is a perfect 36—bust 36 inches, waist 21-2, and hips 38.

Miss Bruce, so I'm told, does nothing for beauty quite a bit of the day. She is a natural-born relaxer and has a peaches-and-cream complexion that is the reward of a serene disposition. She does not diet. She enjoys a hearty breakfast, omits lunch, and eats good dinner at night. Tennis, golf and biking keep her figure trim.

The famous Mae West has a different set of curves: Bust 37-1-2 inches, waist 29-1-2, and hips 37-1-2 inches. I'll have to go up and see her exercise some time. Miss West concentrates on a figure program for waist, hip and back, keeping the hip and bust measurement the same—which makes a fine figure of a woman.

June Lang, who has been dub-

Perfect measurements mean work or play for exercise.

bed the modern Venus because of her perfect form, is one of the most active young ladies in Hollywood in outdoor sports. She plays a lot of tennis, swims, and is very fond of bicycling, and walking. June is five feet three and one-half inches tall, and weighs 104 pounds. These are her measurements: Bust 31-1-2 inches, waist 26, hips 36-1-2 inches.

Dolores Del Rio, internationally famed for her lovely figure, personifies the streamlined ideal. This exotic beauty is five feet, three and one-half inches tall and weighs 115 pounds. It's dancing that keeps the Del Rio figure lithe and perfectly proportioned. Look at this set of measurements: Bust 34 inches, waist 24 inches, and hips 35-1-2 inches.

As you can see from a comparison of these figures, beauty is not to be standardized. What these stars have in common is a proportionate difference between measurements and the fact that they all work—or play—to keep their perfect proportions. No woman can have a lovely figure unless she exercises—not even a movie star!

Take your height, weight, and measurements, and be guided in your figure program by the two new leaflets, "Measure Your Curves," and "Weight and Measurement Record." You can have just as perfect measurements for your structure as any of these stars—but you'll have to work!

MEN LIKE TO BE SEEN WITH GIRLS WHO KNOW THEIR ETIQUETTE

POOR TABLE MANNERS RATE YOU

Poor Don! Like all men he wants to go around with a girl he can be proud of. And see how Kay's dreadful table manners let him down.

Tilting her plate as though she'd starve if she didn't get that last drop. Taking her soup from the tip instead of from the side of the spoon. And dinner has just begun!

Will she stab olives with a fork? Push food on her fork with her knife? Hang the knife and fork on the edge of her plate? Let the coffee spoon stand in the cup? Yes, thinks Don miserably, she probably will. But, thank goodness, there's Elsie to date for the next club dinner.

Elsie has breeding. She takes olives with her fingers; uses her knife for cutting only—never for pushing and patting food. Her knife and fork lie across the plate when she's not using them. Her coffee spoon, after a stir or two, stays in the saucer.

Little things! But on such little things a girl's popularity depends. When you take Dick calling, should you introduce him to other guests? No, let your hostess introduce him—unless she's busy elsewhere.

When you go to a dance, who suggests leaving? The girl does. Does a girl thank a man for taking her to a football game or to a movie? No, she says, "I enjoyed it so much."

Be posted on these points and see how your stock goes up socially. Our 40-page booklet, Etiquette for Every Day, tells what to do at dances, the movies, when traveling, dating, dining—to have the poise that makes people proud to be seen with you.

Send 15c for our booklet, ETIQUETTE FOR EVERY DAY, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

NOTES ON OLD GENTLEMAN'S CURSE.

In the medical profession it is more or less customary to acknowledge the deference paid by a colleague who refers a patient to you. Physicians or specialists who are meticulous about this do not say just Thank you for referring John Jones but make the message the occasion for reporting to the colleague something of the findings, the opinion arrived at or advice given Mr. Jones. Alas, there are in the who are apparently insensible to the amenities of this intercourse. These barbarians, perhaps presuming to impress the plodding practitioners they compete with, send a printed or an imitation engraved card or slip which vouchsafes that the eminent one, so damn busy he hasn't time to bandy words with pikers, has consented to treat one J. Jones and though the formal card does not say so, ominously implying that it is the last the goody practitioner will ever hear or see of that patient!

Georgia U. D. C. Convention Theme Will Center on Jefferson Davis

MACON, Ga., Oct. 5.—(AP)—The Georgia division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy opened its 42d annual convention here tonight. A resolution protesting payment of Confederate veterans through the federally-assisted State Welfare Department is expected to come up for consideration tomorrow or Thursday.

Chief speaker on the opening program was Mrs. Walter D. Lamar, historian general of the national organization. Her topic—and the theme of the convention itself—was "Jefferson Davis."

Mrs. James Crouse, president of the Sidney Lanier U. D. C. chapter in Macon, said the theme of the entire convention would center on Davis, the president of the Confederacy.

The protest on the state's method of handling Confederate veterans' pensions is expected to come from the Atlanta U. D. C. Mrs. F. E. Kibler, head of the Atlanta chapter, announced the draft of the protest had been presented to the resolutions committee.

Sponsors of the protest said they thought the state should pay the Confederate pensioners, rather than having them go to the State Welfare Department. At a conference in Atlanta recently, Governor Rivers told a group of U.

D. C. leaders that it was not imperative that Confederate pensioners apply for old-age assistance, but that the plan was employed to obtain federal aid in paying the pensioners.

The Governor had been scheduled to speak at tonight's session, but said the pre-session legislative conferences he is holding would prevent his coming here. Mrs. Crouse was called on to preside over tonight's session, and Mrs. Frank Dennis, of Eatonton, president of the Georgia division, to introduce Mrs. Lamar.

The program began with a professional led by Mrs. F. C. Exley, of Savannah, marshal, and included pages, honorary presidents, past presidents, ex-general officers, Georgia division officers, general officers, aides and others.

The program included welcoming addresses by Mrs. Crouse, Mayor Herbert Smart, Mrs. Walter Grace, and a response by Mrs. Charles Tillman, of Quitman, second vice president.

Mrs. I. Bashinski, of Dublin, was asked to introduce past general officers and other guests; Miss Mary Lizzie Wright to present honorary presidents; Mrs. Dennis the aides; Mrs. H. P. Redwine, the convention pages, and Mrs. Clyde Hunt, Thomson, past presidents of the Georgia division.

MEN LOVE PEPPY GIRLS

If you are happy and peppy and full of fun, men will take you places. If you are lively, they will invite you to dances and parties.

BUT, if you are cross and lifeless and always tired out, men won't be interested in you. Men don't like "quiet" girls. Men go to parties to enjoy themselves. They want girls along who are full of pep.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature take up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching middle age.

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and go "smiling through."

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP)—
The bond market cracked wide open today with losses of 1 to 2 points the rule and some issues down as much as 6. Widest gaps appeared in the rail group.
Following President Roosevelt's denunciation of aggressor nations and warning that the country could not hold aloof from a world conflict, an increasing tide of selling sent prices tumbling. Earlier losses were extended and at the close many issues were at the lowest levels in a year or so.
Federal bonds wavered uncertainly within a narrow range with more losers than gainers. Declines did not exceed 3-32 of a point while advances were held to 4-32 of a point.
The Associated Press averages for 20 rails dropped .8 of a point to 84.3.
Foreign dollar loans were uneven with swings in both directions ranging up to 2 points or more. Japan 6 1-2s slipped 2 7-8 to 74 1-8 and the 5 1-2s slid 1 3-4 to 59 3-4. Polish obligations were in demand and gained fractions to around a point. Abitibi Power & Paper slumped 4 to 81.
Total turnover for all bonds was $9,000,000, face value, compared with $6,400,000 yesterday.
